Remarks

This box was found in wooden crate addressed to Sumi at Topaz, Utah [TNHH.307/HH104.67]

Curtiss Candy Company was founded in 1916 by German immigrant Otto Schnering. Schnering got the inspiration of naming the company from his mother's maiden name in order to make it more American sounding. The Jolly Jack candy was included in army rations during World War II. In 1964, the company was acquired by Standard Brands, which then later went into a merger with Nabisco in 1981. After the merger, the Curtiss brands were then sold to the food giant Nestlé. [Information from Wikipedia and www.grocery.com/curtis-candy-company].
