I. INTRODUCTION

The City of Riverside (City) has experience significant growth over the past nine years growing from 303,871 to an estimated 324,727 making the City the 12th most populous city in California. The population density is nearly 4,000 people per square mile, with the population of 18 and under making up .25% of the population and those in the age range 25-44 making up 27% of the population. Over the past ten years, the population has grown at a rate of around 1%, and is expected to continue near the same rate over the next few years. The City has 28 designated neighborhoods and a total area of approximately 81.5 square miles. California State Route 91 traverses the length of the City and the Interstate 15 travels through the northeastern side of the City.

The City is exploring various options for developing a new police headquarters within the city that optimizes operational services to the community. The Riverside Police Department's current headquarters is located at 4102 Orange Street, a two-story building that also has a basement level with approximately 30,000 square feet in use. Once housing all the policing functions for the City, it now operates as policing headquarters primarily limited to administrative functions, including police management, accounting, personnel services and records. However, the facility is also used by field officers for pre-booking arrestees and booking items of evidence. While the useful life and function of the structure has lapsed, its strongest asset is its location. The current headquarters building is adjacent to the county jail, a block away from the criminal courts building and accessible to the Riverside Community Hospital. The headquarters building is owned by the County of Riverside and is leased to the City, however the lease for the facility is scheduled to terminate August 14, 202s. The lease may be extended for an addition term; however, the County has indicated its desire to maintain ownership of the property.

Other RPD facilities include the Magnolia Street Station, which is located in the western end of the city and houses the Department's detectives, the training staff, Internal Affairs, Dispatch, the four Neighborhood Policing Centers, a records bureau, a community room and a conference room. The headquarters building and the Magnolia Street Station are the primary facilities that are open to the public during regular business hours. After hours and on weekends, police services accessible to members of the public are limited to patrol and dispatch.

The Department also has the Lincoln Street Station at 8181 Lincoln Street, in the central part of the city. Field Operations (Patrol and Traffic) operate from the Lincoln Street Station, as does the bomb squad and hazardous materials response. There is also a firearms range used for firearms training and qualification. Both the Magnolia Street and Lincoln Street stations have fueling stations for police vehicles.

Finally, the Department has one smaller facility located at 7020 Central Avenue, near the Riverside Airport. This facility houses the Department's Aviation Bureau and the METRO (SWAT) team.

The replacement of the RPD headquarters building was identified as a principal need in the campaign for Measure Z, (a sales tax measure to improve City infrastructure approved by City residents) and was widely discussed with voters prior to the passage of that measure. The budget for the new policing headquarters is approximately $35 million. City staff has identified a few potential sites for the proposed headquarters, but has not made a final section of the site, size or operation of the headquarters facility.

Given evolving trends in policing (e.g. technological innovations, predictive modeling, etc.), and actual RPD data (e.g. geographic distribution of calls for service, travel patterns of patrols, etc.), and other considerations (e.g. fiscal impacts, customer service needs, etc.), the City is seeking a policing consulting firm with significant experience in successfully providing, federal, state and municipal policing agencies guidance in developing strategic plans to meet current and future policing needs. The consulting firm must also consider how the existing RPD facilities work together as a system and whether there are additional facility needs the City should consider in addressing current and future policing in Riverside. The selected consulting firm will work with the General Services Department, RPD Administration and City staff to develop a plan considering the current policing needs of the City and trends for policing into the future.

II. BACKGROUND

Over the past several years, the Police Administration has worked with City staff in identifying potential sites for the construction of a proposed fifty thousand square foot facility that would house Police Administration and a neighborhood station. Most of the sites identified for potential development of the joint facility have been outside the downtown core. Recent staff discussions have considered the development of a smaller administration office in the downtown and a police station that would serve the downtown outside the downtown core. Questions of future policing trends in general have generated questions regarding the most effective and efficient development and placement of the new facility.

III. SCOPE OF SERVICES

The City is seeking responses to a Request for Proposal (RFP) for consulting services from firms that are experienced, responsible, capable, and most qualified in the present and future needs in policing.
