Frequently Asked Questions

These are ABC's most frequently asked questions about: ENFORCEMENT AND VIOIATIONS (continued)

Q. 78. May minors be employed in "on-sale" premises?

A. In a bona fide public eating place, minors between 18 and 21 years of age may serve alcoholic beverages in an area primarily designed and used for the sale and service of food for consumption on the premises as an incidental part of their overall duties. These minors cannot act as bartenders. (Section 25667)

No minor can be employed during business hours on the portion of any premises which is primarily designed and used for the sale and service of alcoholic beverages for consumption on the premises. There are exceptions, under limited circumstances, with respect to musicians. (Sections 25663 and 25663.5)

Q. 79. May a minor enter and remain in a licensed premises even though the minor does not purchase or consume any alcoholic beverages?

A. Not if the premises are licensed as an on-sale general public premises, on-sale beer and wine public premises or on-sale beer public premises. There are no restrictions regarding minors entering or remaining on premises licensed for off-sale of alcoholic beverages or premises licensed and maintained and operated as a bona fide public eating place. (Section 25665)

Q. 80. May an off-sale licensee hire minors or use the services of a person under 18 years of age for the sale of alcoholic beverages?

A. Yes, if the person under 18 years of age is under the continuous supervision of a person 21 years of age or older. (Section 25663[b])

Q. 81. May a habitual drunkard or an obviously intoxicated person be sold alcoholic beverages?

A. No. Every person who sells, furnishes, gives or causes to be sold, furnished or given away, any alcoholic beverages to any habitual drunkard, or to any obviously intoxicated person is guilty of a misdemeanor. (Section 25602)

Q. 82. How may a licensee determine whether a customer is obviously intoxicated?

A. A customer is obviously intoxicated when an average person can plainly observe that the patron is intoxicated. The usual signs are staggering, alcoholic breath, slurred speech, poor muscular coordination, etc. (Section 25602)

Q. 83. Is a retail licensee required to close the doors of the licensed premises ### and not serve alcoholic beverages during the hours that an election is being held?

A. No. The Legislature has repealed the law which prohibited sales on election days.

Q. 84. What are the lawful hours for retail sale of alcoholic beverages?

A. From 6 a.m. to 2 a.m. of the following day. In other words, it is unlawful to sell alcoholic beverages either by the drink or by the package, between the hours of 2 a.m. and 6 a.m. of the same day.

It is also unlawful for any person to knowingly purchase any alcoholic beverages between the hours of 2:00 a.m. and 6:00 a.m. (Section 25631)

ABC may further restrict the operating hours of licensed premises. Such restrictions may be imposed in the following situations:

- 1. If grounds exist for the denial of an application for a license or where a protest against the issuance of a license is filed and if ABC finds that those grounds may be removed by imposition of those conditions;
- 2. Where findings are made by ABC which would justify a suspension or revocation of a license, and where the imposition of a condition is reasonably related to those findings. In the case of a suspension, the conditions may be in lieu of or in addition to the suspension;
- 3. Where ABC issues an order suspending or revoking only a portion of the privileges to be exercised under the license;
- 4. Where findings are made by ABC that the licensee has failed to correct objectionable conditions within a reasonable time after receipt of notice to make corrections given pursuant to subdivision (e) of Section 24200.

Q. 85. At what time must a licensee cease sales of alcoholic beverages when the time changes from standard time to daylight savings time and vice versa?

A. On the day that a time change occurs from Pacific Standard time to Pacific Daylight time or back again to Pacific Standard time, "2 o'clock a.m." means two hours after 12 o'clock a.m. of the day preceding the day such change occurs. (Section 25631)

Q. 86. May an on-sale licensee stack drinks or sell and serve drinks a few minutes before 2 a.m. and permit patrons to remain on the premises consuming alcoholic beverages after that hour?

A. No. It is a misdemeanor for any retail licensee or employee of the licensee to permit any person, including himself, to consume alcoholic beverages on the licensed premises between 2 a.m. and 6 a.m. of the same day. (Section 25632)

Q. 87. May a retail licensee sell alcoholic beverages to another retailer for resale?

A. No. The law provides that only a licensed wholesaler, beer manufacturer, winegrower, rectifier or brandy manufacturer may sell alcoholic beverages to retailers, with the exception that an off-sale general licensee may sell distilled spirits to a holder of a daily on-sale general license. (Sections 23402 and 24045.1)

Q. 88. May a licensee sell beer in unlabeled cans or bottles?

A. No. Beer containers must be labeled and the labels must show the name and address of the manufacturer of the beer and also the bottler of the beer, if other than the manufacturer. Reasonable allowance will be made if the labels slough off in the water cooler, but care should be taken to avoid this. (Section 25200 and Rule 130)

Q. 89. Does the customer who requests an alcoholic drink by brand name have any assurance that the brand ordered will be served?

A. State law requires that the licensee or employee of the licensee must first inform the purchaser of a substitution of a different type or brand of beverage than that ordered by the patron. The patron then, of course, has the choice of refusing to accept the substitute. If the purchaser is not informed, the licensee or employee is guilty of a misdemeanor. (Section 25609)

Q. 90. May any person have on a licensed premises any alcoholic beverage other than the type authorized by the license?

A. Generally, licensees may not have or allow customers to have any alcoholic beverage on the premises that are stronger than those named on the license. An exception is made for a bona fide public eating place with an on-sale beer and wine license to have brandy, rum or liqueurs solely for cooking purposes. (Section 25607)

Q. 91. May wine be placed in decanting bottles by an on-sale licensee?

A. Yes. This may be done at the time of service to patrons for consumption on the premises.

Q. 92. May partially consumed wine bottles be removed from an on-sale licensed premises?

A. Yes, but only from on-sale licensed premises maintaining a bona fide eating place. (Section 23396.5)

Q. 93. Is the refilling of a distilled spirits bottle unlawful?

A. Any person who refills a bottle with distilled spirits is guilty of a misdemeanor. It is also unlawful to offer to keep for sale any distilled spirits in a bottle which has been refilled or partly refilled. (Sections 25176 and 25177)

The law which required that empty bottles be broken has been repealed.

Q. 94. May empty distilled spirits bottles be sold by an on-sale general licensee or his employees?

A. No. (Section 25178)

Q. 95. Is there any law prohibiting the use of open pouring spouts?

A. No, but it should be remembered that the use of open pouring spouts, particularly on slow moving items, can cause either or both of the following violations:

- o Contamination of the beverage by insects. (Insects are particularly attracted to sweet alcoholic beverages.)
- o Loss of proof by evaporation (approximately 4 to 5 proof per year).

Q. 96. Must keg beer sold to consumers be registered?

A. Every retailer selling keg beer to consumers must place an identification tag on all kegs of beer at the time of sale, and the purchaser must sign a receipt. Keg identification allows kegs to be traced.

Possession of a keg with knowledge that the keg is not identified OR providing false information by the purchaser on the Beer Keg Registration Receipt is a misdemeanor. (Section 25659.5)

Q. 97. Are there any special restrictions for licensees who sell both alcoholic beverages and gasoline?

A. Yes. Outlets that sell both alcoholic beverages and gasoline must abide by these conditions:

- 1. No beer or wine shall be displayed within five feet of the cash register or the front door unless it is in a permanently affixed cooler as of January 1, 1988.
- 2. No advertisement of alcoholic beverages shall be displayed at motor fuel islands.
- 3. No display or sale of beer or wine shall be made from a drive-in window.
- 4. No display or sale of beer or wine shall be made from an ice tub.
- 5. No beer or wine advertising shall be located on motor fuel islands and no self-illuminated advertising for beer or wine shall be located on buildings or windows.
- 6. Employees on duty between the hours of 10 p.m. and 2 a.m. who sell beer or wine shall be at least 21 years of age. (Note: Non-selling employees are unregulated.) (Section 23790.5[d])

ABC: For a first offense, the penalty is a $750-$3,000 fine, license suspension, or probation. For a second offense within three years, the penalty is a mandatory license suspension. For a third offense within three years, the license may be revoked.

25. Musicians (Minors)

Musicians who are at least age 18 but not yet 21 can be employed in all types of on-sale premises, only if the following conditions exist: (a) There is no topless or nude entertainment, either live or on film; (b) The area of employment is restricted for the exclusive use of musicians and entertainers; (c) No alcohol is sold, served, or consumed in the restricted entertainment area; (d) The restricted area is readily identifiable. It must be a room, a stage, or an area bounded by partitions or other barriers at least 30 inches high; (e) While performing, the musician must remain in the restricted area.

At a bar or tavern (license Type 42, 48, or 61) the minor musician must remain in the restricted area at all times, except when: (a) Entering or leaving the premises, (b) Setting up equipment, (c) Visiting restrooms, (d) Resting or changing clothing in a room which is not used for sale, service, or consumption of alcohol by the public, (e) Auditioning when the place is not open for business. An entertainer is a musician if the bulk of his or her performance involves making music with an instrument or his or her voice. (Sec. 25663.5 B&P)

26. Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs

Licensees may not knowingly permit illegal sales, negotiations, or use of narcotics or dangerous drugs on the licensed premises. (Secs. 24200.5(a) and 24200(a) B&P; various H&S)

27. Objectionable Conditions (Failure to Correct)

Upon notice, licensees must take reasonable steps to correct objectionable, nuisance conditions on or about the licensed premises and on abutting public sidewalks up to 20 feet from the premises, within a reasonable period of time. The conditions include disturbance of the peace, public drunkenness, drinking in public, harassment of passersby, gambling, prostitution, loitering, public urination, lewd conduct, drug trafficking, or excessive loud noise. Exception: Restaurants (license Types 41 and 47), hotels, motels, wineries, and beer manufacturers are not responsible for correcting nuisance conditions on abutting public sidewalks. (Sec. 24200[e][f][g] B&P).

28. Obviously Intoxicated Persons and Habitual Drunkards

No person may sell or give alcohol to anyone who is obviously intoxicated. No person may cause or permit this to occur. A person is obviously intoxicated when the average person can plainly see that the person is intoxicated. In other words, the person looks or acts drunk. This includes regular customers who "always act that way." It does not matter that the person is not driving. For there to be a violation of law, the prosecutor must prove that the server either saw or had the chance to see the signs of intoxication before the service. Some of the signs of intoxication are: being overly friendly, using foul language, argumentative, belligerent, slurred speech, slow, deliberate movements, swaying, drowsy, stumbling, red, watery eyes, or alcoholic breath.

No person may sell or give alcohol to anyone who is a habitual drunkard (a person who has lost control over his or her drinking). No person may cause or permit this to occur. A server may discover a habitual drunkard in one of two ways: (a) A family member tells you the person has a drinking problem and asks you not to serve, or (b) the patron is a regular and unable to handle drinking on a regular basis. A licensee or server who has been warned and still serves a habitual drunkard faces possible ABC disciplinary action and criminal prosecution. (Secs. 25602(a) and 23001 B&P; 397 PC)

After that Detective Williams writes a supplemental. But interestingly enough in the supplemental, Detective Williams says, I went back and I talked to everybody else and I looked at my notes, and no, Officer Jones wasn't there. From a logical point of view, if this were a large conspiracy between all of these individuals, the more logical result would have been that Officer Williams would have gone back, looked at his original report and said, you know what, my bad, I should have told you that Officer Jones really was there, and it would've bolstered his testimony. But he did not do that, so I don't have misconduct on his part. What I have is actually something that's helpful to the Defense, and that is that Officer Jones' testimony in the preliminary hearing of December 19, 2016, was wrong. So I'm going to deny the motion as to Detective Williams.

Now, Officer Jones is another thing. Here's the sequence of events. The preliminary hearing occurs on December 19, 2016. Officer Jones not only testified that he was at The Hideaway with the informant on March 24, 2016, he testifies to specific instances exactly of what happened that he observed at that time. Then I get the report from Allison Gray that is attached dated September 26, 2017, and she realized that when she was speaking with him -- actually, I think the report was later than that. But when she was speaking with him on September 26, 2017, he said, you know what, I got the dates mixed up; I was there on March 17, 2016, not March 24, 2016, and

I let the deputy district attorney -- and that would be I believe Mr. Kliebert -- know at the time of the preliminary hearing that I messed up. But then oddly enough, on November 26, 2017, Officer Jones writes a supplemental report saying that he was there on March 24, 2016, and observed all of this stuff.

Now, I go back to the CALCRIM that says that if an individual is willfully false in one area of testimony, that a jury may conclude that they should disregard all of his testimony. Which means they have the job of figuring out whether, one, he was just mistaken or, two, whether he wasn't there, was lying at the preliminary hearing and subsequently filed a fabricated report in order to bolster that lie, and whether or not if that is true it permeates all of his testimony regarding every single instance wherein he says that

Mr. LaChance facilitated these particular drug sales.

I have to keep in mind that the operative people who would have had the interaction between this defendant and themselves in order to make the case for the People are, one, the informant who the People have already said they are not calling as a witness and who is not being disclosed --

MR. FINEMAN: Actually, that's not true, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay. Well, maybe it's true now, but I'm only going by what I had from the last date, and if that's changed, we can cross that bridge when we get there.

MR. FINEMAN: All right. The informant has been disclosed, just so the record is clear, Your Honor.

THE COURT: Okay. Thank you. Because nobody told me

US Department of Justice 888 S. Figueroa Street #1880 Los Angeles, CA 90017

Subject:

Racial Discrimination by City of Riverside, Riverside Planning Department and Riverside Police Department against Hideaway Café due to Racial Composition of Patronage

Officials of the Office of Attorney General and U.S. Department of Justice:

I write to you on behalf of my client, Hideaway Café, regarding continued racial discrimination and retaliation it has suffered at the hands of the City of Riverside ("City") and its Planning and Police Departments. As you are likely aware, the City of Riverside is no stranger to government intervention when it comes to matters of racial discrimination. In the late 1990's, the City was embroiled in racial discord following the shooting of a young African-American woman by three Riverside Police Department officers. The City remained under the watchful eye of the Department of Justice for several years following this tragic event. Since that time, the City has also been sued by an African American sergeant of the Riverside Police Department for racial discrimination. Sergeant V. Graham had been passed up by the Riverside Police Department for lieutenant numerous times, despite his scores exceeding those who were eventually given the promotion. The City ultimately settled the lawsuit, paying Mr. Graham a large settlement and promoting him to Lieutenant. Unfortunately, the culture of racial discrimination and retaliation still plagues the City and its Planning and Police Departments.

My client has been the victim of selective enforcement and retaliation due to the racial composition of his patronage, which is predominately African-American. Members of the Riverside Police Department have made statements to my client's manager that the reason the Hideaway is having problems with the City is because of "ALL THE BLACKS". My client's establishment is treated far differently than those establishments that cater to wealthy white patrons, such as the Mission Inn Hotel and Mario's restaurant. I originally brought the issue of racial discrimination and retaliation concerning my client to the City's attention back in 2016. I had hoped that the City could resolve the issue internally. However, the City has done nothing and the racial discrimination and retaliation continues and appears to be rewarded by police advancements.

As a showing of good faith and honesty, I had my client's manager sit for a polygraph examination regarding the comments made to him by Riverside Police Department personnel that the problem with the Hideaway is "ALL THE BLACKS". I selected an examiner that was highly credentialed and under contract by both the state and federal government. As the results reveal, my client showed no deception and the examiner deemed him truthful.

I have taken up this cause for my client at no charge because I feel so strongly about the issue of racial discrimination and police abuse. I hope that your agencies can see the urgency of this disturbing matter and conduct all necessary investigations and take all necessary actions against the City of Riverside, its Planning Department and Police Department.

Thank you for your time and cooperation regarding this matter. It is very much appreciated.

Client:

Freselli, David

Date:

April 15, 2019

Mr. Freselli voluntarily came to the office of Omega Polygraph located at 1849 Commercenter East., San Bernardino, CA for a polygraph examination concerning a specific issue polygraph examination.

Mr. Freselli presented in casual attire. He was alert and responsive and stated he was in good health and not taking any medications. It was this examiners opinion that Mr. Freselli was a good candidate to undergo a polygraph exam.

Before beginning the examination, the client reviewed and signed a voluntary consent form allowing the completion of this examination, and releasing Omega Polygraph, LLC, including any agents, employees, employers, or affiliates of any liability resulting from the is polygraph examination. The signed statement assures that the examinee was advised that the entire test would be electronically recorded; that all information findings and examination data would be subsequently disseminated to the above-named client and /or lawful authority, and that the examinee could terminate the examination at any time and/or speak with an attorney if desired.

Before starting the examination, a verbal pretest interview was conducted to summarize the issues as reported by Mr. Freselli. The following was explained; polygraph components and related physiological processes, debrief the examinee of any information regarding the issues and circumstances under investigation, and thoroughly review the test questions and the examinee's intended answers for each particular portion of the testing process.

Pre-Examination Disclosure(s):

Mr. Freselli stated he is the bar manager at the Hideaway Café located in the city of Riverside. He stated the Hideaway Café has a valid liquor license however the city of Riverside has denied granting a Conditional Use Permit to allow him to sell alcoholic beverages on site. Mr. Freselli believes the denial by the city of Riverside is racially motivated because of comments made by two officials from the Riverside Police Department on two separate occasions.

Mr. Freselli stated the first incident occurred about three years ago outside a Riverside Police Department substation. He said he went to the sub-station to speak with Sgt. Michael Crawford regarding the city's denial to grant the Conditional Use Permit but was told he was not there. Mr. Freselli stated he did speak to Officer Pete Elliott and explained to him the reason he was there, and Officer Pete Elliot told him the reason is because of the "Problems with all the blacks." He stated the conversation occurred outside the sub-station.

Mr. Freselli stated the second incident occurred about a year ago. He said Lt. Townsend agreed to meet with him at the Hideaway café and before he arrived, he sent him a text message stating that Sgt. Mike Crawford will also be attending the meeting when Mr. Freselli expressed his concerns about being denied the Conditional Use Permit because officers from the Riverside Police Department made comments about the predominately African American clientele at the Hideaway. Mr. Freselli said Sgt. Crawford admitted to commenting about "All the blacks" in the presence of Lt. Townsend. Mr. Freselli stated he was shocked that Sgt. Crawford admitted to this because it was Officer Pete Elliot who made the comment. He stated he told Sgt. Crawford he did not hear him make any comments about his clientele before today, but Sgt. Crawford awkwardly replied, "Yeah, that was me."

The Federal You Phase (Bi-Zone) technique was administered during this portion of the data collection phase.

Relevant Questions:

The relevant questions were developed from the above information. Prior to the beginning of the examination, each of the questions was reviewed with Mr. Freselli, and he stated he understood each of the questions.

The following relevant questions were asked, and the examinee answered, "Yes" during this portion of the testing phase:

- R1: Did Pete Elliott tell you the problem is with the blacks at the Highway cafe?
- R2: Did Mike Crawford admit to making a comment about the black clientele at the Highway Café in the presence of Lt. Townsend?

ANALYSIS:

The subject did not produce any significant physiological responses to the relevant questions. This procedure resulted in a finding of No Significant Response.

Data Collection

A Limestone Technologies computerized multichannel polygraph instrument, that is capable of simultaneously recording both thoracic and abdominal respiration, along with changes in cardiovascular and electrodermal activity, was used. The polygraph instrument also includes dedicated components to monitor test subject behavior and assist in the accurate differentiation of test data that represents authentic sympathetic/autonomic response activity to test stimulus questions, from data that includes adulterated autonomic and peripheral/behavioral nervous system activities intended to alter or defeat one's polygraph test results. The polygraph data was evaluated using the Empirical Scoring System, Multinomial (ESS-M). The Empirical Scoring System, Multinomial (ESS-M) is an evidence-based, standardized protocol for polygraph test data analysis.

State of RHODE ISLAND and Rhode Island Liquor Stores Association.

> No. 94–1140. Argued Nov. 1, 1995. Decided May 13, 1996.

Synopsis

Liquor retailers brought declaratory judgment action challenging Rhode Island statutes prohibiting advertisement of liquor prices. The United States District Court for the District of Rhode Island, Raymond J. Pettine, Senior District Judge, 829 F.Supp. 543, held statutes were invalid. Appeal was taken. The Court of Appeals for the First Circuit, 39 F.3d 5,reversed. Certiorari was granted. The Supreme Court, Justice Stevens, held that: (1) state's complete statutory ban on price advertising for alcoholic beverages abridged speech in violation of First Amendment, and (2) Twenty-

Justice Scalia and Justice Thomas filed opinions concurring in part and concurring in the judgment.

Justice O'Connor filed an opinion concurring in the judgment, in which Chief Justice Rehnquist and Justices Souter and Breyer joined.

**1498 **484 Syllabus *

Petitioners, a licensed Rhode Island liquor retailer and a licensed Massachusetts liquor retailer patronized by Rhode Island residents, filed this action seeking a declaratory judgment that Rhode Island laws banning the advertisement of retail liquor prices except at the place of sale violate the First Amendment. In concluding that the ban was unconstitutional because it did not directly advance the State's asserted interest in the promotion of temperance and was more extensive than necessary to serve that interest, the District Court reasoned that the party seeking to uphold a restriction on commercial speech carries the burden of justifying it and that the Twenty-first Amendment did not shift or diminish that burden. In reversing, the Court of Appeals, inter alia, found "inherent merit" in the State's submission that competitive price advertising would ultimately increase sales, and agreed with it that the Twenty-first Amendment gave its advertising ban an added presumption of validity.

Held: The judgment is reversed.

39 F.3d 5 (C.A.1 1994), reversed.

Justice STEVENS delivered the opinion of the Court with respect to Parts I, II, VII, and VIII, concluding:

commerce in, or the use of, alcoholic beverages—limits the dormant Commerce Clause's effect on a State's regulatory power over the delivery or use of liquor within its borders, the Amendment does not license the States to ignore their obligations under other constitutional provisions. See, e.g., Capital Cities Cable, Inc. v. Crisp, 467 U.S. 691, 712, 104 S.Ct. 2694, 2707, 81 L.Ed.2d 580. California v. LaRue, 409 U.S. 109, 118–119, 93 S.Ct. 390, 397–398, 34 L.Ed.2d 342, disavowed. Because the First Amendment must be included among those other provisions, the Twenty-first Amendment does not shield the advertising ban from constitutional scrutiny. Pp. 1514–1515.

2. Because Rhode Island has failed to carry its heavy burden of justifying its complete ban on price advertising, that ban is invalid. P. 1515.

*485 Justice STEVENS delivered the principal opinion with respect to Parts III–VI, concluding that Rhode Island's ban on advertisements that provide the public with accurate information about retail liquor prices is an unconstitutional abridgment of the freedom of speech. Pp. 1504–1514.

(a) Justice STEVENS, joined by Justice KENNEDY, Justice SOUTER, and Justice GINSBURG, concluded in Part III that although the First Amendment protects the dissemination of truthful and nonmisleading commercial messages about lawful products and services in order to ensure that consumers **1499 receive accurate information, see, e.g., Virginia Bd. of Pharmacy v. Virginia Citizens Consumer Council, Inc., 425 U.S. 748, 765, 96 S.Ct. 1817, 1827, 48 L.Ed.2d 346, the special nature of commercial speech, including its "greater objectivity" and "greater hardiness," authorizes

- 9, 100 S.Ct. 2343, 2351, n. 9, 65 L.Ed.2d 341. However, regulations that entirely suppress commercial speech in order to pursue a policy not related to consumer protection must be reviewed with "special care," and such blanket bans should not be approved unless the speech itself was flawed in some way, either because it was deceptive or related to unlawful activity. See ibid. Pp. 1504–1507.
- (b) Justice STEVENS, joined by Justice KENNEDY and Justice GINSBURG, concluded in Part IV that a review of the case law reveals that commercial speech regulations are not all subject to a similar form of constitutional review simply because they target a similar category of expression. When a State regulates commercial messages to protect consumers from misleading, deceptive, or aggressive sales practices, or requires the disclosure of beneficial consumer information, the regulation's purpose is consistent with the reasons for according constitutional protection to commercial speech and therefore justifies less than strict review. However, where a State entirely prohibits the dissemination of truthful, nonmisleading commercial messages for reasons unrelated to the preservation of a fair bargaining process, there is far less reason to depart from the rigorous review that the First Amendment generally demands. The special dangers that attend such complete bans—including, most obviously, the fact that they all but foreclose alternative channels of communication—present sound reasons that justify more careful review. Pp. 1507-1508.
- (c) Justice STEVENS, joined by Justice KENNEDY, Justice SOUTER, and Justice GINSBURG, concluded in Part V that because Rhode Island's advertising ban constitutes a blanket prohibition against truthful, nonmisleading strict standard that generally applies in commercial speech cases under Central Hudson, id., at 566, 100 S.Ct., at 2351. First, the advertising ban does not directly advance the State's substantial interest in promoting temperance. See ibid. Because a commercial speech regulation may not be sustained if it provides only ineffective or remote support for the government's purpose, id., at 564, 100 S.Ct., at 2350, the State bears the burden of showing not merely that its regulation will advance its interest, but also that it will do so "to a material degree," see, e.g., Edenfield v. Fane, 507 U.S. 761, 767, 113 S.Ct. 1792, 1798, 123 L.Ed.2d 543. In this case, therefore, the State must show that the ban will significantly reduce alcohol consumption, but has presented no evidence to suggest a significant reduction. Second, the ban is more extensive than necessary to serve its stated interest, see 447 U.S., at 566, 100 S.Ct., at 2351, since alternative forms of regulation that would not involve any speech restrictions—e.g., the maintenance of higher prices either by direct regulation or by increased taxation, the rationing of per capita purchases, or the use of educational campaigns focused on drinking problems would be more likely to achieve the goal of promoting temperance. Thus, the State has failed to establish the requisite "reasonable fit" between its regulation and its goal. See, e.g., Board of Trustees, State Univ. of N.Y. v. Fox, 492 U.S. 469, 480, 109 S.Ct. 3028, 3034-3035, 106 L.Ed.2d 388. Pp. 1508–1510.

(d) Justice STEVENS, joined by Justice KENNEDY, Justice THOMAS, and Justice GINSBURG, concluded in Part VI that the State's arguments in support of its claim that it merely exercised appropriate "legislative judgment" in determining that a price advertising ban would best

the State could, if it chose, ban the sale of alcoholic beverages outright; and (3) that deference is appropriate because alcoholic beverages are so-called "vice" products—must be rejected. See Rubin v. Coors Brewing Company, 514 U.S. 476, 482–483, n. 2, 115 S.Ct. 1585, 1589–1590, n. 2, 131 L.Ed.2d 532. United States v. Edge Broadcasting, 509 U.S. 418, 113 S.Ct. 2696, 125 L.Ed.2d 345, distinguished; Posadas de Puerto Rico Associates v. Tourism Co. of P.R., 478 U.S. 328, 106 S.Ct. 2968, 92 L.Ed.2d 266, distinguished and disavowed in part. Pp. 1510–1514.

Justice SCALIA concluded that guidance as to what the First Amendment forbids, where the core offense of suppressing particular political ideas is not at issue, must be taken from the long accepted practices of the American people. See McIntyre v. Ohio Elections Comm'n, 514 U.S. 334, 375, 115 S.Ct. 1511, 1532, 131 L.Ed.2d 426 (SCALIA, J., dissenting). Since, however, the Court has before it no evidence as to state legislative practices regarding regulation *487 of commercial speech when the First and Fourteenth Amendments were adopted, or even as to any national consensus on the subject later developed, he would simply adhere to the Court's existing jurisprudence, which renders the Rhode Island regulation invalid. P. 1515.

Justice THOMAS concluded that in cases such as this, in which the government's asserted interest is to keep legal users of a product or service ignorant in order to manipulate their choices in the marketplace, the Central Hudson balancing test should not be applied. Rather, such an "interest" is per se illegitimate, cf., e.g., Virginia Bd. of Pharmacy v. Virginia Citizens Consumer Council, Inc., 425 U.S. 748, 768–770, 96 S.Ct. 1817, 1828–1830, 48 L.Ed.2d 346, and can no more justify regulation of alcohol-price advertising is invalid and cannot be saved by the Twenty-first Amendment, but concluded that the First Amendment question must be resolved more narrowly by applying the test established in Central Hudson Gas & Elec. Corp. v. Public Serv. Comm'n of N.Y., 447 U.S. 557, 566, 100 S.Ct. 2343, 2351, 65 L.Ed.2d 341. Assuming that the prohibition satisfies the test's first three prongs—i.e., that (1) the speech at issue concerns lawful activity and is not misleading, (2) the asserted governmental interest is substantial, and (3) the regulation directly advances the governmental interest —Rhode Island's regulation fails the final fourth prong because its ban is more extensive than necessary to serve its stated interest. Rhode Island justifies its ban on price advertising on the ground that the ban is intended to keep alcohol prices high as a way to keep consumption low. In order for a speech restriction to pass muster under the fourth prong, there must be a reasonable fit between the legislature's goal and method. Board of Trustees of State Univ. of N.Y. v. Fox, 492 U.S. 469, 480, 109 S.Ct. 3028, 3034-3035, 106 L.Ed.2d 388. The fit here is not reasonable, since the State has other methods at its disposal—e.g., establishing minimum prices and/or increasing sales taxes on alcoholic beverages—that would more directly accomplish its stated goal without intruding on sellers' ability to provide truthful, nonmisleading information to customers. Posadas de Puerto Rico Associates v. Tourism Co. of P.R., 478 U.S. 328, 341-344, 106 S.Ct. 2968, 2976–2978, 92 L.Ed.2d 266, distinguished. The principal opinion errs in adopting a new analysis for the evaluation of commercial speech regulation. Pp. 1520– 1523.

In 1956, the Rhode Island Legislature enacted two separate prohibitions against advertising the retail price of alcoholic beverages. The first applies to vendors licensed in Rhode Island as well as to out-of-state manufacturers, wholesalers, and shippers. It prohibits them from "advertising in any manner whatsoever" the price of any alcoholic beverage offered for sale in the State; the only exception is for price tags or signs displayed with the merchandise within licensed premises and not visible from the street. <sup>2</sup> The second statute (*490) applies to the Rhode Island news media. It contains a categorical prohibition against the publication or broadcast of any advertisements—even those referring to sales in other States—that "make reference to the price of any alcoholic beverages." <sup>3</sup>

**1502 In two cases decided in 1985, the Rhode Island Supreme Court reviewed the constitutionality of these two statutes. In S&S Liquor Mart, Inc. v. Pastore, 497 A.2d 729, a liquor retailer located in Westerly, Rhode Island, a town that borders the State of Connecticut, having been advised that his license would be revoked if he advertised his prices in a Connecticut paper, sought to enjoin enforcement of the first statute. Over the dissent of one justice, the court upheld the statute. It concluded that the statute served the substantial state interest in " 'the promotion of temperance.' " 4 491 Id., at 737. Because the plaintiff failed to prove that the statute did not serve that interest, the court held that he had not been overcome in that case, the State Supreme Court assumed that in a future case the record might "support the proposition that these advertising restrictions do not further temperance objectives." Id., at 734.

Rhode Island Liquor Stores Assn. v. Evening Call Pub. Co., 497 A.2d 331, the plaintiff association <sup>5</sup> sought to enjoin the publisher of the local newspaper in Woonsocket, Rhode Island, from accepting advertisements disclosing the retail price of alcoholic beverages being sold across the state line in Millville, Massachusetts. In upholding the injunction, the *492 State Supreme Court adhered to its reasoning in the Pastore case and rejected the argument that the statute neither "directly advanced" the state interest in promoting temperance, nor was "more extensive than necessary to serve that interest" as required by this Court's decision in Central Hudson Gas & Elec. Corp. v. Public Serv. Comm'n of N.Y., 447 U.S. 557, 591, 100 S.Ct. 2343, 2364, 65 L.Ed.2d 341 (1980). It assumed the existence of other, "perhaps more effective means" of achieving the State's "goal of temperance," but concluded that it was "not unreasonable for the State of Rhode Island to believe that price advertising will result in increased sales of alcoholic beverages generally." Rhode Island Liquor Stores Assn. v. Evening Call Pub. Co.. 497 A.2d, at 336.

H

Petitioners 44 Liquormart, Inc. (44 Liquormart), and Peoples Super Liquor Stores, Inc. **1503 (Peoples), are licensed retailers of alcoholic beverages. Petitioner 44 Liquormart operates a store in Rhode Island and petitioner Peoples operates several stores in Massachusetts that are patronized by Rhode Island Complaints from competitors about an advertisement placed by 44 Liquormart in a Rhode Island newspaper in 1991 generated enforcement proceedings that in turn led to the initiation of this litigation. The advertisement did not state the price of any alcoholic beverages. Indeed, it noted that "State law prohibits advertising liquor prices." The ad did, however, state the low prices at which peanuts, potato chips, and Schweppes mixers were being offered, identify various brands of packaged liquor, and include the word "WOW" in large letters next to pictures of vodka and rum bottles. Based on the conclusion that the implied reference to bargain prices for liquor violated the statutory ban on *493 price advertising, the Rhode Island Liquor Control Administrator assessed a $400 fine.

After paying the fine, 44 Liquormart, joined by Peoples, filed this action against the administrator in the Federal District Court seeking a declaratory judgment that the two statutes and the administrator's implementing regulations violate the First Amendment and other provisions of federal law. The Rhode Island Liquor Stores Association was allowed to intervene as a defendant and in due course the State of Rhode Island replaced the administrator as the principal defendant. The parties stipulated that the price advertising ban is vigorously enforced, that Rhode Island permits "all advertising of alcoholic beverages excepting references to price outside the licensed premises," and that petitioners' proposed ads do not concern an illegal activity and presumably would not be false or misleading. 44 Liquor Mart, Inc. v. Racine, 829 F.Supp. 543, 545 (D.R.I.1993). The parties disagreed, however, about the impact of the ban on the promotion of temperance in Rhode Island. On that question the British of the modern control of on the level of consumption of alcoholic beverages. He referred to a 1985 Federal Trade Commission study that found no evidence that alcohol advertising significantly affects alcohol abuse. Another study indicated that Rhode Island ranks in the upper 30% of States in per capita consumption of alcoholic beverages; alcohol consumption is lower in other States that allow price advertising. After summarizing the testimony of the expert witnesses for both parties, he found "as a fact that Rhode Island's off-premises liquor price advertising ban has no significant impact on levels of alcohol consumption in Rhode Island." Id., at 549.

*494 As a matter of law, he concluded that the price advertising ban was unconstitutional because it did not "directly advance" the State's interest in reducing alcohol consumption and was "more extensive than necessary to serve that interest." Id., at 555. He reasoned that the party seeking to uphold a restriction on commercial speech carries the burden of justifying it and that the Twenty-first Amendment did not shift or diminish that burden. Acknowledging that it might have been reasonable for the state legislature to "assume a correlation between the price advertising ban and reduced consumption," he held that more than a rational basis was required to justify the speech restriction, and that the State had failed to demonstrate a reasonable "'fit'" between its policy objectives and its chosen means. Ibid.

The Court of Appeals reversed. 39 F.3d 5 (C.A.1 1994). It found "inherent merit" in the State's submission that competitive price advertising would lower prices and that lower prices would produce more sales. Id., at 7. Moreover, it agreed with the reasoning of the Rhode Island Supreme Court that the Twenty-first Amendment 39 F.3d, at 8. In that case the Court dismissed the appeal from a decision of the Ohio Supreme Court upholding a prohibition against off-premises advertising of the prices of alcoholic beverages sold by the drink. See Queensgate Investment Co. v. Liquor Control Comm'n of Ohio, 69 Ohio St.2d 361, 433 N.E.2d 138 (1982).

Queensgate has been both followed and distinguished in subsequent cases reviewing the validity of similar advertising bans. <sup>6</sup> We are now persuaded that the importance of *495 the First Amendment issue, as well the suggested relevance of the Twenty-first Amendment, merits more thorough analysis than it received when we refused to accept jurisdiction of the Queensgate appeal. We therefore granted certiorari. 514 U.S. 1095, 115 S.Ct. 1821, 131 L.Ed.2d 743 (1995).

Advertising has been a part of our culture throughout our history. Even in colonial days, the public relied on "commercial speech" for vital information about the market. Early newspapers displayed advertisements for goods and services on their front pages, and town criers called out prices in public squares. See J. Wood, The Story of Advertising 21, 45–69, 85 (1958); J. Smith, Printers and Press Freedom 49 (1988). Indeed, commercial messages played such a central role in public life prior to the founding that Benjamin Franklin authored his early defense of a free press in support of his decision to print, of all things, an advertisement for voyages to Barbados. Franklin, An Apology for Printers, $\frac{*496}{496}$ June 10, 1731, reprinted in 2 Writings of Benjamin Franklin 172 (1907).

In accord with the role that commercial messages have long played, the law has developed to ensure that advertising provides consumers with accurate the 1970's, however, that this Court held that the First Amendment protected the dissemination of truthful and nonmisleading commercial messages about lawful products and services. See generally Kozinski & Banner, The Anti–History and Pre–History of Commercial Speech, 71 Texas L.Rev. 747 (1993).

In Bigelow v. Virginia, 421 U.S. 809, 95 S.Ct. 2222, 44 L.Ed.2d 600 (1975), we held that it was error to assume that commercial speech was entitled to no First Amendment protection or that it was without value in the marketplace of ideas. Id., at 825–826, 95 S.Ct., at 2234–2235. The following Term in Virginia Bd. of Pharmacy v. Virginia Citizens Consumer Council, Inc., 425 U.S. 748, 96 S.Ct. 1817, 48 L.Ed.2d 346 (1976), we expanded on our holding in Bigelow and held that the State's blanket ban on advertising the price of prescription drugs violated the First Amendment.

**1505 Virginia Bd. of Pharmacy reflected the conclusion that the same interest that supports regulation of potentially misleading advertising, namely, the public's interest in receiving accurate commercial information, also supports an interpretation of the First Amendment that provides constitutional protection for the dissemination of accurate and nonmisleading commercial messages. We explained:

"Advertising, however tasteless and excessive it sometimes may seem, is nonetheless dissemination of information as to who is producing and selling what product, for what reason, and at what price. So long as we preserve *497 a predominantly free enterprise economy, the allocation of our resources in large measure will be made through numerous private economic decisions. It is a matter of public interest

The opinion further explained that a State's paternalistic assumption that the public will use truthful, nonmisleading commercial information unwisely cannot justify a decision to suppress it:

"There is, of course, an alternative to this highly paternalistic approach. That alternative is to assume that this information is not in itself harmful, that people will perceive their own best interests if only they are well enough informed, and that the best means to that end is to open the channels of communication rather than to close them. If they are truly open, nothing prevents the 'professional' pharmacist from marketing his own assertedly superior product, and contrasting it with that of the low-cost, high-volume prescription drug retailer. But the choice among these alternative approaches is not ours to make or the Virginia General Assembly's. It is precisely this kind of choice, between the dangers of suppressing information, and the dangers of its misuse if it is freely available, that the First Amendment makes for us." Id., at 770, 96 S.Ct., at 1829.

On the basis of these principles, our early cases uniformly struck down several broadly based bans on truthful, nonmisleading commercial speech, each of which served ends unrelated 498 to consumer protection. Indeed, one of those cases expressly likened the rationale that Virginia Bd. of Pharmacy employed to the one that Justice Brandeis adopted in his concurrence in Whitney v. California, 274 U.S. 357, 47 S.Ct. 641, 71 L.Ed. 1095 (1927). See *Linmark*Associates, Inc. v. Willingboro, 431 U.S. 85, 97, 97 S.Ct. 1614, 1620–1621, 52 L.Ed.2d 155 (1977). There, Justice Brandeis wrote, in explaining his objection to a dangerous because they all but foreclose alternative means of disseminating certain information.

Our commercial speech cases have recognized the dangers that attend governmental attempts to single out certain messages for suppression. For example, in Linmark, 431 U.S., at 92–94, 97 S.Ct., at 1618–1619, we concluded that a ban on "For Sale" signs *502 was "content based" and failed to leave open "satisfactory" alternative channels of communication; see also Virginia Bd. of Pharmacy, 425 U.S., at 771, 96 S.Ct., at 1830. Moreover, last Term we upheld a 30–day prohibition against a certain form of legal solicitation largely because it left so many channels of communication open to Florida lawyers. Florida Bar v. Went For It, Inc., 515 U.S. 618, 633–634, 115 S.Ct. 2371, 2380–2381, 132 L.Ed.2d 541 (1995). <sup>11</sup>

- The special dangers that attend complete bans on truthful, nonmisleading commercial speech cannot be explained away by appeals to the "commonsense distinctions" that exist between commercial and noncommercial speech. Virginia Bd. of Pharmacy, 425 U.S., at 771, n. 24, 96 S.Ct., at 1830, n. 24. Regulations that suppress the truth are **1508* no less troubling because they target objectively verifiable information, nor are they less effective because they aim at durable messages. As a result, neither the "greater objectivity" nor the "greater hardiness" of truthful, nonmisleading commercial speech justifies reviewing its complete suppression with added deference. Ibid.
- 7 It is the State's interest in protecting consumers from "commercial harms" that provides "the typical reason why commercial speech can be subject to greater governmental regulation than noncommercial be implemented without regulating speech. Central Hudson, 447 U.S., at 566, n. 9, 100 S.Ct., at 2351, n. 9. In this way, these commercial speech bans not only hinder consumer choice, but also impede debate over central issues of public policy. See id., at 575, 100 S.Ct., at 2356 (Blackmun, J., concurring in judgment). <sup>13</sup>

Precisely because bans against truthful, nonmisleading commercial speech rarely seek to protect consumers from either deception or overreaching, they usually rest solely on the offensive assumption that the public will respond "irrationally" to the truth. Linmark, 431 U.S., at 96, 97 S.Ct., at 1620. The First Amendment directs us to be especially skeptical of regulations that seek to keep people in the dark for what the government perceives to be their own good. That teaching applies equally to state attempts to deprive consumers of accurate information about their chosen products:

"The commercial marketplace, like other spheres of our social and cultural life, provides a forum where ideas and information flourish. Some of the ideas and information are vital, some of slight worth. But the general rule is that the speaker and the audience, not the government, *504 assess the value of the information presented. Thus, even a communication that does no more than propose a commercial transaction is entitled to the coverage of the First Amendment. See Virginia State Bd. of Pharmacy, supra, at 762 [96 S.Ct., at 1825]." Edenfield v. Fane, 507 U.S. 761, 767, 113 S.Ct. 1792, 1798, 123 L.Ed.2d 543 (1993).

See also Linmark, 431 U.S., at 96, 97 S.Ct., at 1620 (1977); Rubin v. Coors Brewing Co., 514 U.S., at 497–498, 115 against truthful, nonmisleading speech about a lawful product. There is also no question that the ban serves an end unrelated to consumer protection. Accordingly, we must review the price advertising ban with "special care," Central Hudson, 447 U.S., at 566, n. 9, 100 S.Ct., at 2351, n. 9, mindful that speech prohibitions of this type rarely survive constitutional review, ibid.

The State argues that the price advertising prohibition should nevertheless be upheld because **1509* it directly advances the State's substantial interest in promoting temperance, and because it is no more extensive than necessary. Cf. id., at 566, 100 S.Ct., at 2351. Although there is some confusion as to what Rhode Island means by temperance, we assume that the State asserts an interest in reducing alcohol consumption. <sup>14</sup>

*505 In evaluating the ban's effectiveness in advancing the State's interest, we note that a commercial speech regulation "may not be sustained if it provides only ineffective or remote support for the government's purpose." Id., at 564, 100 S.Ct., at 2350. For that reason, the State bears the burden of showing not merely that its regulation will advance its interest, but also that it will do so "to a material degree." Edenfield, 507 U.S., at 771, 113 S.Ct., at 1800-1801; see also Rubin v. Coors Brewing Co., 514 U.S., at 486-488, 115 S.Ct., at 1591–1592. The need for the State to make such a showing is particularly great given the drastic nature of its chosen means—the wholesale suppression of truthful, nonmisleading information. Accordingly, we must determine whether the State has shown that the price advertising ban will significantly reduce alcohol consumption.

absence of proof on the point, we can even agree with the State's contention that it is reasonable to assume that demand, and hence consumption throughout the market, is somewhat lower whenever a higher, noncompetitive price level prevails. However, without any findings of fact, or indeed any evidentiary support whatsoever, we cannot agree with the assertion that the price advertising ban will significantly advance the State's interest in promoting temperance.

*506 Although the record suggests that the price advertising ban may have some impact on the purchasing patterns of temperate drinkers of modest means, 829 F.Supp., at 546, the State has presented no evidence to suggest that its speech prohibition will significantly reduce marketwide consumption. <sup>16</sup> Indeed, the District Court's considered and uncontradicted finding on this point is directly **1510 to the contrary. Id., at 549. <sup>17</sup> Moreover, the evidence suggests that the abusive drinker will probably not be deterred by a marginal price increase, and that the true alcoholic may simply reduce his purchases of other necessities.

In addition, as the District Court noted, the State has not identified what price level would lead to a significant reduction in alcohol consumption, nor has it identified the amount $\frac{1}{2}$507 that it believes prices would decrease without the ban. Ibid. Thus, the State's own showing reveals that any connection between the ban and a significant change in alcohol consumption would be purely fortuitous.

As is evident, any conclusion that elimination of the ban would significantly increase alcohol consumption would require us to engage in the sort of "speculation or takes aim at accurate commercial information for paternalistic ends.

The State also cannot satisfy the requirement that its restriction on speech be no more extensive than necessary. It is perfectly obvious that alternative forms of regulation that would not involve any restriction on speech would be more likely to achieve the State's goal of promoting temperance. As the State's own expert conceded, higher prices can be maintained either by direct regulation or by increased taxation. 829 F.Supp., at 549. Per capita purchases could be limited as is the case with prescription drugs. Even educational campaigns focused on the problems of excessive, or even moderate, drinking might prove to be more effective.

As a result, even under the less than strict standard that generally applies in commercial speech cases, the State has failed to establish a "reasonable fit" between its abridgment of speech and its temperance goal. Board of Trustees of State Univ. of N.Y. v. Fox, 492 U.S. 469, 480, 109 S.Ct. 3028, 3034-3035, 106 L.Ed.2d 388 (1989); see also *508 Rubin v. Coors Brewing Co., 514 U.S., at 491, 115 S.Ct., at 1594 (explaining that defects in a federal ban on alcohol advertising are "further highlighted by the availability of alternatives that would prove less intrusive to the First Amendment's protections for commercial speech"); Linmark, 431 U.S., at 97, 97 S.Ct., at 1620-1621 (suggesting that the State use financial incentives or counter-speech, rather than speech restrictions, to advance its interests). It necessarily follows that the price advertising ban cannot survive the more stringent constitutional review that Central Hudson itself concluded was appropriate for the complete suppression of truthful, nonmisleading price advertising ban would best promote temperance. Relying on the Central Hudson analysis set forth in Posadas de Puerto Rico Associates v. Tourism Co. of P. R., 478 U.S. 328, 106 S.Ct. 2968, 92 L.Ed.2d 266 (1986), and **1511 United States v. Edge Broadcasting Co., 509 U.S. 418, 113 S.Ct. 2696, 125 L.Ed.2d 345 (1993), Rhode Island first argues that, because expert opinions as to the effectiveness of the price advertising ban "go both ways," the Court of Appeals correctly concluded that the ban constituted a "reasonable choice" by the legislature. 39 F.3d, at 7. The State next contends that precedent requires us to give particular deference to that legislative choice because the State could, if it chose, ban the sale of alcoholic beverages outright. See Posadas, 478 U.S., at 345–346, 106 S.Ct., at 2979. Finally, the State argues that deference is appropriate because alcoholic beverages are so-called "vice" products. See Edge, 509 U.S., at 426, 113 S.Ct., at 2703; Posadas, 478 U.S., at 346-347, 106 S.Ct., at 2979-2980. We consider each of these contentions in turn.

prohibition at issue. Our commercial speech cases recognize some room for the exercise of legislative judgment. See Metromedia, Inc. v. San Diego, 453 U.S. 490, 507–508, 101 S.Ct. 2882, 2892–2893, 69 L.Ed.2d 800 (1981). However, Rhode Island errs in concluding that Edge and 7509 Posadas establish the degree of deference that its decision to impose a price advertising ban warrants.

In Edge, we upheld a federal statute that permitted only those broadcasters located in States that had legalized lotteries to air lottery advertising. The statute was designed to regulate advertising about an activity that had been deemed illegal in the jurisdiction in which the

"up to the legislature" to choose to reduce gambling by suppressing in-state casino advertising rather than engaging in educational speech. Posadas, 478 U.S., at 344, 106 S.Ct., at 2978. Rhode Island argues that this logic demonstrates the constitutionality of its own decision to ban price advertising in lieu of raising taxes or employing some other less speech-restrictive means of promoting temperance.

The reasoning in Posadas does support the State's argument, but, on reflection, we are now persuaded that Posadas erroneously performed the First Amendment analysis. The casino advertising ban was designed to keep truthful, nonmisleading speech from members of the public for fear that they would be more likely to gamble if they received it. As a result, the advertising ban served to shield the State's antigambling policy from the public scrutiny that more direct, nonspeech regulation would draw. See Posadas, id., at 351, 106 S.Ct., at 2982 (Brennan, J., dissenting).

Given our longstanding hostility to commercial speech regulation of this type, Posadas clearly erred in concluding that it was "up to the legislature" to choose suppression over a less speech-restrictive policy. The Posadas majority's conclusion on that point cannot be reconciled with the unbroken line of prior cases striking down similarly broad regulations on truthful, nonmisleading advertising when non-speech-related *510 alternatives were available. See id., at 350, 106 S.Ct., at 2981–2982 (Brennan, J., dissenting) (listing cases); Kurland, Posadas de Puerto Rico v. Tourism Company: "'Twas Strange, 'Twas Passing Strange; 'Twas Pitiful, 'Twas Wondrous Pitiful," 1986 S.Ct. Rev. 1, 12–15.

Because the 5-to-4 decision in Posadas marked such a

Instead, in keeping with our prior holdings, we conclude that a state legislature does not have the broad discretion to suppress truthful, nonmisleading information for paternalistic purposes that the Posadas majority was willing to tolerate. As we explained in Virginia Bd. of Pharmacy, "[i]t is precisely this kind of choice, between the dangers of suppressing information, and the dangers of its misuse if it is freely available, **1512 that the First Amendment makes for us." 425 U.S., at 770, 96 S.Ct., at 1829.

We also cannot accept the State's second contention, which is premised entirely on the "greaterincludes-the-lesser" reasoning endorsed toward the end of the majority's opinion in Posadas. There, the majority stated that "the greater power to completely ban casino gambling necessarily includes the lesser power to ban advertising of casino gambling." 478 U.S., at 345–346, 106 S.Ct., at 2979. It went on to state that "because the government could have enacted a wholesale prohibition of [casino gambling] it is permissible for the government to take the less intrusive step of allowing the conduct, but reducing the demand through restrictions on advertising." Id., at 346, 106 S.Ct., at 2979. The majority concluded that it would "surely be a strange constitutional doctrine which would concede to the legislature the authority to totally ban a product or activity, but deny to the legislature the authority to forbid the stimulation of demand for the product or activity through advertising on behalf of those who would profit from such increased demand." Ibid. On the basis of *511 these statements, the State reasons that its undisputed authority to ban alcoholic beverages must include the power to restrict advertisements offering them for sale.

rejected the argument, noting that the statement in the Posadas opinion was made only after the majority had concluded that the Puerto Rican regulation "survived the Central Hudson test." 514 U.S., at 483, n. 2, 115 S.Ct., at 1589–1590, n. 2. Further consideration persuades us that the "greater-includes-the-lesser" argument should be rejected for the additional and more important reason that it is inconsistent with both logic and well-settled doctrine.

Although we do not dispute the proposition that greater powers include lesser ones, we fail to see how that syllogism requires the conclusion that the State's power to regulate commercial activity is "greater" than its power to ban truthful, nonmisleading commercial speech. Contrary to the assumption made in Posadas, we think it quite clear that banning speech may sometimes prove far more intrusive than banning conduct. As a venerable proverb teaches, it may prove more injurious to prevent people from teaching others how to fish than to prevent fish from being sold. 19 Similarly, a local ordinance banning bicycle lessons may curtail freedom far more than one that prohibits bicycle riding within city limits. In short, we reject the assumption that words are necessarily less vital to freedom than actions, or that logic somehow proves that the power to prohibit an activity is necessarily "greater" than the power to suppress speech about it.

*512 As a matter of First Amendment doctrine, the Posadas syllogism is even less defensible. The text of the First Amendment makes clear that the Constitution presumes that attempts to regulate speech are more dangerous than attempts to regulate conduct. That presumption accords with the essential role that the free flow of information plays in a democratic society. As

These basic First Amendment principles clearly apply to commercial speech; indeed, the Posadas majority impliedly conceded as much by applying the Central Hudson test. Thus, it is no answer that commercial speech concerns products and services that the government may freely regulate. Our decisions from Virginia Bd. of Pharmacy have made plain that a State's regulation of the sale of goods differs in kind from a State's regulation of accurate information about those goods. The distinction that our cases have consistently drawn between these two types **1513 of governmental action is fundamentally incompatible with the absolutist view that the State may ban commercial speech simply because it may constitutionally prohibit the underlying conduct. <sup>20</sup>

*513 That the State has chosen to license its liquor retailers does not change the analysis. Even though government is under no obligation to provide a person, or the public, a particular benefit, it does not follow that conferral of the benefit may be conditioned on the surrender of a constitutional right. See, e.g., Frost & Frost Trucking Co. v. Railroad Comm'n of Cal., 271 U.S. 583, 594, 46 S.Ct. 605, 607, 70 L.Ed. 1101 (1926). In Perry v. Sindermann, 408 U.S. 593, 92 S.Ct. 2694, 33 L.Ed.2d 570 (1972), relying on a host of cases applying that principle during the preceding quarter century, the Court explained that government "may not deny a benefit to a person on a basis that infringes his constitutionally protected interests—especially his interest in freedom of speech." Id., at 597, 92 S.Ct., at 2697. That teaching clearly applies to state attempts to regulate commercial speech, as our cases striking down bans on truthful, nonmisleading speech by licensed professionals attest. See, e.g., Bates v. State Bar of Ariz., 433 U.S., at 355, 97 0.01 1.0004.1/ 1.1.01.101 advocated temperance, we think it equally clear that its power to ban the sale of liquor entirely does not include a power to censor all advertisements that contain accurate and nonmisleading information about the price of the product. As the entire Court apparently now agrees, the statements in the Posadas opinion on which Rhode Island relies are no longer persuasive.

that, under Posadas and Edge, the price advertising ban should be upheld because it targets commercial speech that pertains to a "vice" activity. Respondents premise their request for a so-called "vice" exception to our commercial speech doctrine on language in Edge which characterized gambling as a "vice." Edge, 509 U.S., at 426, 113 S.Ct., at 2703; see also Posadas, 478 U.S., at 346–347, 106 S.Ct., at 2979–2980. Respondents misread our precedent. Our decision last Term striking down an alcohol-related advertising *514 restriction effectively rejected the very contention respondents now make. See Rubin v. Coors Brewing Co., 514 U.S., at 478, 482, n. 2, 115 S.Ct., at 1587, 1589–1590, n. 2.

Moreover, the scope of any "vice" exception to the protection afforded by the First Amendment would be difficult, if not impossible, to define. Almost any product that poses some threat to public health or public morals might reasonably be characterized by a state legislature as relating to "vice activity." Such characterization, however, is anomalous when applied to products such as alcoholic beverages, lottery tickets, or playing cards, that may be lawfully purchased on the open market. The recognition of such an exception would also have the unfortunate consequence of either allowing state legislatures to justify censorship by the simple expedient of placing the "vice" label on selected lawful principled justification for **1514 the regulation of commercial speech about that activity.

VII

From 1919 until 1933, the Eighteenth Amendment to the Constitution totally prohibited "the manufacture, sale, or transportation of intoxicating liquors" in the United States and its territories. Section 1 of the Twenty-first Amendment repealed that prohibition, and § 2 delegated to the several States the power to prohibit commerce in, or the use of, alcoholic beverages. <sup>21</sup> The States' regulatory power over this segment of commerce is therefore largely "unfettered *515 by the Commerce Clause." Ziffrin, Inc. v. Reeves, 308 U.S. 132, 138, 60 S.Ct. 163, 167, 84 L.Ed. 128 (1939).

As is clear, the text of the Twenty-first Amendment supports the view that, while it grants the States authority over commerce that might otherwise be reserved to the Federal Government, it places no limit whatsoever on other constitutional provisions.

Nevertheless, Rhode Island argues, and the Court of Appeals agreed, that in this case the Twenty-first Amendment tilts the First Amendment analysis in the State's favor. See 39 F.3d, at 7–8.

In reaching its conclusion, the Court of Appeals relied on our decision in California v. LaRue, 409 U.S. 109, 93 S.Ct. 390, 34 L.Ed.2d 342 (1972). <sup>22</sup> In LaRue, five Members of the Court relied on the Twenty-first Amendment to buttress the conclusion that the First Amendment did not invalidate California's prohibition of certain grossly sexual exhibitions in premises licensed to serve alcoholic beverages. Specifically, the opinion stated that the Twenty-first Amendment required that the prohibition be given an added presumption in favor of its validity. See id., at 118–119, 93 S.Ct., at 397–398.

beverages in inappropriate locations. Moreover, in subsequent cases, the Court has recognized that the States' inherent police powers provide ample authority to restrict the kind of "bacchanalian revelries" described in the LaRue opinion regardless of whether alcoholic beverages are involved. Id., at 118, 93 S.Ct., at 397; see, e.g., Young v. American Mini Theatres, Inc., 427 U.S. 50, 96 S.Ct. 2440, 49 L.Ed.2d 310 (1976); Barnes v. Glen Theatre, Inc., 501 U.S. 560, 111 S.Ct. 2456, 115 L.Ed.2d 504 (1991). As we recently noted: "LaRue did not involve *516 commercial speech about alcohol, but instead concerned the regulation of nude dancing in places where alcohol was served." Rubin v. Coors Brewing Co., 514 U.S., at 483, n. 2, 115 S.Ct., at 1589–1590, n. 2.

17 Without questioning the holding in LaRue, we now disavow its reasoning insofar as it relied on the Twentyfirst Amendment. As we explained in a case decided more than a decade after LaRue, although the Twentyfirst Amendment limits the effect of the dormant Commerce Clause on a State's regulatory power over the delivery or use of intoxicating beverages within its borders, "the Amendment does not license the States to ignore their obligations under other provisions of the Constitution." Capital Cities Cable, Inc. v. Crisp, 467 U.S. 691, 712, 104 S.Ct. 2694, 2707, 81 L.Ed.2d 580 (1984). That general conclusion reflects our specific holdings that the Twenty-first Amendment does not in any way diminish the force of the Supremacy Clause, ibid.; 4 California Retail Liquor Dealers Assn. v. Midcal Aluminum, Inc., 445 U.S. 97, 112-114, 100 S.Ct. 937, 946-48, 63 L.Ed.2d 233 (1980), the Establishment Clause, **1515 Larkin v. Grendel's Den, Inc., 459 U.S. 116, 122, n. 5, 103 S.Ct. 505, 510, n. 5, 74 L.Ed.2d 297 (1982), or the Equal Protection Clause, Craig v. Boren, 429 U.S. 190, 209, 97 C OL 4E1 400 E01 E la lace (1070) W first Amendment, therefore, cannot save Rhode Island's ban on liquor price advertising.

VIII

burden of justifying its complete ban on price advertising, we conclude that R.I. Gen. Laws §§ 3–8–7 and 3–8–8.1 (1989), as well as Regulation 32 of the Rhode Island Liquor Control Administration, abridge speech in violation of the First Amendment as made applicable to the States by the Due Process Clause of the Fourteenth Amendment. The judgment of the Court of Appeals is therefore reversed.

It is so ordered.

*517 Justice SCALIA, concurring in part and concurring in the judgment.

I share Justice THOMAS's discomfort with the Central Hudson test, which seems to me to have nothing more than policy intuition to support it. I also share Justice STEVENS's aversion towards paternalistic governmental policies that prevent men and women from hearing facts that might not be good for them. On the other hand, it would also be paternalism for us to prevent the people of the States from enacting laws that we consider paternalistic, unless we have good reason to believe that the Constitution itself forbids them. I will take my guidance as to what the Constitution forbids, with regard to a text as indeterminate as the First Amendment's preservation of "the freedom of speech," and where the core offense of suppressing particular political ideas is not at issue, from the long accepted practices of the American people. See McIntyre v. Ohio Elections Comm'n, 514 U.S. 334, 375, 115 S.Ct. 1511, 1532-1533. 131 L.Fd.2d 426 (1995) (SCALIA. J...

Advertising Federation et al. did examine various expressions of view at the time the First Amendment was adopted; they are consistent with First Amendment protection for commercial speech, but certainly not dispositive. I consider more relevant the state legislative practices prevalent at the time the First Amendment was adopted, since almost all of the States had free speech constitutional guarantees of their own, whose meaning was not likely to have been different from the federal constitutional provision derived from them. Perhaps more relevant still are the state legislative practices at the time the Fourteenth Amendment was adopted, since it is most improbable that that adoption was meant to overturn any existing national consensus regarding free speech. Indeed, it is rare that any nationwide practice would develop contrary to a proper understanding of the First Amendment $\fomega_518 itself—for which reason I think also relevant any national consensus that had formed regarding state regulation of advertising after the Fourteenth Amendment, and before this Court's entry into the field. The parties and their amici provide no evidence on these points.

Since I do not believe we have before us the wherewithal to declare Central Hudson wrong—or at least the wherewithal to say what ought to replace it—I must resolve this case in accord with our existing jurisprudence, which all except Justice THOMAS agree would prohibit the challenged regulation. I am not disposed to develop new law, or reinforce old, on this issue, and accordingly I merely concur in the judgment of the Court. I believe, however, that Justice STEVENS's treatment of the application of the Twenty–first Amendment to this case is correct, and accordingly join Parts I, II, VII, and VIII of Justice STEVENS's opinion.

in Central Hudson Gas & Elec. Corp. v. Public Serv. Comm'n of N.Y., 447 U.S. 557, 100 S.Ct. 2343, 65 L.Ed.2d 341 (1980), should not be applied, in my view. Rather, such an "interest" is per se illegitimate and can no more justify regulation of "commercial" speech than it can justify regulation of "noncommercial" speech.

In Virginia Bd. of Pharmacy v. Virginia Citizens Consumer Council, Inc., 425 U.S. 748, 762, 96 S.Ct. 1817, 1825–1826, 48 L.Ed.2d 346 (1976), this Court held that speech that does "'no more than propose a commercial transaction' " was protected by the First Amendment, and struck down a ban on price advertising regarding prescription drugs. The Court asserted that a "particular consumer's interest in the free flow of commercial information" may *519 be as keen as, or keener than, his interest in "the day's most urgent political debate," id., at 763, 96 S.Ct., at 1826, and that "the proper allocation of resources" in our free enterprise system requires that consumer decisions be "intelligent and well informed," id., at 765, 96 S.Ct., at 1827. The Court also explained that, unless consumers are kept informed about the operations of the free market system, they cannot form "intelligent opinions as to how that system ought to be regulated or altered." Ibid. See also id., at 765-766, 96 S.Ct., at 1827-1828, nn. 19–20. <sup>1</sup> The Court sharply rebuffed the State's argument that consumers would make irresponsible choices if they were able to choose between higher priced but higher quality pharmaceuticals accompanied by high quality prescription monitoring services resulting from a "stable pharmacist-customer relationshi[p]," id., at 768, 96 S.Ct., at 1828, on the one hand, and cheaper but lower quality pharmaceuticals unaccompanied by such services, on the other:

With the state of the state of

"There is, of course, an alternative to this highly paternalistic approach. That alternative is to assume that this information is not in itself harmful, that people will perceive their own best interests, if only they are well enough informed, and that the best means to that end is to open the channels of communication rather than to close them.... It is precisely this kind of choice, between the dangers of suppressing information, and the dangers of its misuse if it is freely available, that the *520 First Amendment makes for us. Virginia is free to require whatever professional standards it wishes of its pharmacists; it may subsidize them or protect them from competition in other ways. But it may not do so by keeping the public in ignorance of the entirely lawful terms that competing pharmacists are offering. In this sense, the justifications Virginia has offered for suppressing the flow of prescription drug price information, far from persuading us that the flow is not protected by the First Amendment, have reinforced our view that it is." Id., at 769-770, 96 S.Ct., at 1829-1830 (citation omitted).

The Court opined that false or misleading advertising was not protected, on the grounds that the accuracy of advertising claims may be more readily verifiable than is the accuracy of political or other claims, and that "commercial" speech is made more durable by its profit motive. Id., at 771, and n. 24, 96 S.Ct., at 1830, and n. 24. The Court also made clear that it did not envision protection for advertising that proposes an illegal transaction. Id., at 772–773, 96 S.Ct., at 1831 (distinguishing Pittsburgh Press Co. v. **1517 Pittsburgh Comm'n on Human Relations, 413 U.S. 376, 93 S.Ct. 2553.

L.Ed.2d 675 (1977) (applying test for suppressing political speech set forth in Brandenburg v. Ohio, 395 U.S. 444, 447, 89 S.Ct. 1827, 1829, 23 L.Ed.2d 430 (1969)).

At the same time, our early cases recognized that the State may regulate some types of commercial advertising more freely than other forms of protected speech. Specifically, **1506 we explained that the State may require commercial messages to "appear in such a form, or include such additional information, warnings, and disclaimers, as are necessary to prevent its being deceptive," Virginia Bd. of Pharmacy, 425 U.S., at 772, n. 24, 96 S.Ct., at 1831, n. 24, and that it may restrict some forms of aggressive sales practices that have the potential to exert "undue influence" over consumers, see Bates v. State Bar of Ariz., 433 U.S. 350, 366, 97 S.Ct. 2691, 2700, 53 L.Ed.2d 810 (1977).

Virginia Bd. of Pharmacy attributed the State's authority to impose these regulations in part to certain "commonsense *499 differences" that exist between commercial messages and other types of protected expression. 425 U.S., at 771, n. 24, 96 S.Ct., at 1830, n. 24. Our opinion noted that the greater "objectivity" of commercial speech justifies affording the State more freedom to distinguish false commercial advertisements from true ones, ibid., and that the greater "hardiness" of commercial speech, inspired as it is by the profit motive, likely diminishes the chilling effect that may attend its regulation, ibid.

Subsequent cases explained that the State's power to regulate commercial transactions justifies its concomitant power to regulate commercial speech that is "linked inextricably" to those transactions. Friedman v. Rogers, 440 U.S. 1, 10, n. 9, 99 S.Ct. 887, 894, n. 9, 59 between the right to speak and hear expression about goods and services and the right of government to regulate the sales of such goods and services." L. Tribe, American Constitutional Law § 12–15, p. 903 (2d ed.1988). Nevertheless, as we explained in Linmark, the State retains less regulatory authority when its commercial speech restrictions strike at "the substance of the information communicated" rather than the "commercial aspect of [it]—with offerors communicating offers to offerees." 431 U.S., at 96, 97 S.Ct., at 1620; Carey v. Population Services Int'l, 431 U.S., at 701, n. 28, 97 S.Ct., at 2025, n. 28.

In Central Hudson Gas & Elec. Corp. v. Public Serv. Comm'n of N.Y., 447 U.S. 557, 100 S.Ct. 2343, 65 L.Ed.2d 341 (1980), we took stock of our developing commercial speech jurisprudence. In that case, we considered a regulation "completely" banning all promotional advertising by electric utilities. Ibid. Our decision acknowledged the special features of commercial speech but identified the serious First Amendment concerns that attend blanket advertising prohibitions that do not protect consumers from commercial harms.

*500 Five Members of the Court recognized that the state interest in the conservation of energy was substantial, and that there was "an immediate connection between advertising and demand for electricity." Id., at 569, 100 S.Ct., at 2353. Nevertheless, they concluded that the regulation was invalid because respondent commission had failed to make a showing that a more limited speech regulation would not have adequately served the State's interest. Id., at 571, 100 S.Ct., at 2354. <sup>9</sup>

In reaching its conclusion, the majority explained that screen from public view the underlying governmental policy." Ibid. As a result, the Court concluded that "special care" should attend the review of such blanket bans, and it pointedly remarked that "in recent years this Court has not approved a blanket ban on commercial speech unless the expression itself was flawed in some way, either because it was deceptive or related to unlawful activity." Ibid. <sup>10</sup>

- As our review of the case law reveals, Rhode Island errs in concluding that all commercial speech regulations are subject to a similar form of constitutional review simply because they target a similar category of expression. The mere fact that messages propose commercial transactions does not in and of itself dictate the constitutional analysis that should apply to decisions to suppress them. See Rubin v. Coors Brewing Co., 514 U.S., at 491–492, 115 S.Ct., at 1587–1588 (STEVENS, J., concurring in judgment).
- protect consumers from misleading, deceptive, or aggressive sales practices, or requires the disclosure of beneficial consumer information, the purpose of its regulation is consistent with the reasons for according constitutional protection to commercial speech and therefore justifies less than strict review. However, when a State entirely prohibits the dissemination of truthful, nonmisleading commercial messages for reasons unrelated to the preservation of a fair bargaining process, there is far less reason to depart from the rigorous review that the First Amendment generally demands.
- 5 Sound reasons justify reviewing the latter type of commercial speech regulation more carefully. Most in a market economy; the antipaternalistic premises of the First Amendment; the impropriety of manipulating consumer choices or public opinion through the suppression of accurate "commercial" information; the near impossibility of severing "commercial" speech from speech necessary to democratic decisionmaking; and the dangers of permitting the government to do covertly what it might not have been able to muster the political support to do openly. <sup>2</sup>

*521 In other decisions, however, the Court has appeared to accept the legitimacy of laws that suppress information in order to manipulate the choices of consumers—so long as the government could show that the manipulation was in fact successful. Central Hudson Gas & Elec. Corp. v. Public Serv. Comm'n of N.Y., 447 U.S. 557, 100 S.Ct. 2343, 65 L.Ed.2d 341 (1980), was the first decision to clearly embrace this position, although the Court applied a very strict overbreadth analysis to strike down the advertising ban at issue. <sup>3</sup> In two other decisions, Posadas de Puerto Rico Associates v. Tourism Co. of P.R., 478 U.S. 328, 106 S.Ct. 2968, 92 L.Ed.2d 266 (1986), and United States v. Edge Broadcasting Co., 509 U.S. 418, 113 S.Ct. 2696, 125 L.Ed.2d 345 (1993), the Court simply presumed that advertising of a product or service leads to increased consumption; since, as in Central Hudson, the Court saw nothing impermissible in the government's suppressing information in order to discourage consumption, it upheld the advertising restrictions *522 in those cases. Posadas, supra, at 341-342, 106 S.Ct., at 2976-2977; Edge, supra, at 425, 433-434, 113 S.Ct., at 2706-2707.

The Court has at times appeared to assume that "commercial" speech could be censored in a variety of ways for any of a variety of reasons because, as was said

State Univ. of N.Y. v. Fox, 492 U.S. 469, 478, 109 S.Ct. 3028, 3033–3034, 106 L.Ed.2d 388 (1989); Florida Bar v. Went For It, Inc., 515 U.S. 618, 623, 115 S.Ct. 2371, 2375-2376, 132 L.Ed.2d 541 (1995), or of "less constitutional moment," Central Hudson, supra, at 562–563, n. 5, 100 S.Ct., at 2349–2350, n. 5. But see Cincinnati v. Discovery Network, Inc., 507 U.S. 410, 418-419, 113 S.Ct. 1505, 1510-1511, 123 L.Ed.2d 99 (1993) (rejecting this assertion); id., at 431, 113 S.Ct., at 1517-1518 (Blackmun, J., concurring) (same). I do not see a philosophical or historical basis for asserting that "commercial" speech is of "lower value" than "noncommercial" speech. Indeed, some historical materials suggest to the contrary. See, e.g., ante, at 1504 (citing Franklin's Apology for Printers); Ex parte Jackson, 96 U.S. 727, 733, 24 L.Ed. 877 (1878) (dictum that Congress could not, consistent with freedom of the press, prevent the circulation of lottery advertising through methods other than the United States mail); see also In re Rapier, 143 U.S. 110, 134-135, 12 S.Ct. 374, 374-375, 36 L.Ed. 93 (1892) (continuing to assume that freedom of the press prevents Congress from prohibiting circulation of newspapers containing lottery advertisements); Lewis Publishing Co. v. Morgan, 229 U.S. 288, 315, 33 S.Ct. 867, 875, 57 L.Ed. 1190 (1913) (same); see generally Brief for American Advertising Federation et al. as Amici Curiae 12–24 (citing authorities for propositions that commercial activity and advertising were integral to life in colonial America and that Framers' political philosophy equated liberty and property and did not distinguish between commercial and noncommercial messages). Nor do I believe that the only explanations that the Court has ever advanced for treating "commercial" speech differently from other speech can justify restricting "commercial" speech in

I do not join the principal opinion's application of the Central Hudson balancing test because I do not believe that such a test should be applied to a restriction of "commercial" speech, at least when, as here, the asserted interest is one that is to be achieved through keeping would-be recipients of the speech in the dark. <sup>5</sup> Application of the advancement-of-state-interest prong of Central Hudson makes little sense to me in such circumstances. Faulting the State for failing to show that its price advertising ban decreases alcohol consumption "significantly," as Justice STEVENS does, ante, at 1510 (emphasis deleted), seems to imply that if the State had been more successful at keeping consumers ignorant and thereby decreasing their consumption, then the restriction might have been upheld. This contradicts Virginia Bd. of *524 Pharmacy's rationale for protecting "commercial" speech in the first instance.

Both Justice STEVENS and Justice O'CONNOR appear to adopt a stricter, more categorical interpretation of the fourth prong of Central Hudson than that suggested in some of our other opinions, <sup>6</sup> one that could, as a practical matter, go a long way toward **1519 the position I take. The State argues that keeping information about lower priced alcohol from consumers will tend to raise the total price of alcohol to consumers (defined as money price plus the costs of searching out lower priced alcohol, see Brief for Respondents 23), thus discouraging alcohol consumption. In their application of the fourth prong, both Justice STEVENS and Justice O'CONNOR hold that because the State can ban the sale of lower priced alcohol altogether by instituting minimum prices or levying taxes, it cannot ban advertising regarding lower priced liquor. Although the tenor of Justice O'CONNOR's opinion (and, to a lesser a direct regulation (i.e., a regulation involving no restriction on speech regarding lawful activity at all) would be an equally effective method of dampening demand by legal users. But it would seem that directly banning a product (or rationing it, taxing it, controlling its price, or otherwise restricting its sale in specific ways) would virtually always be at least as effective in discouraging consumption as merely restricting advertising regarding the product would be, and thus virtually all restrictions with such a purpose would fail the fourth prong of the Central Hudson test. *525 This would be so even if the direct regulation is, in one sense, more restrictive of conduct generally. In this case, for example, adoption of minimum prices or taxes will mean that those who, under the current legal system, would have happened across cheap liquor or would have sought it out, will be forced to pay more. Similarly, a State seeking to discourage liquor sales would have to ban sales by convenience stores rather than banning convenience store liquor advertising; it would have to ban liquor sales after midnight, rather than banning advertising by late-night liquor sellers; and so on.

The upshot of the application of the fourth prong in the opinions of Justice STEVENS and of Justice O'CONNOR seems to be that the government may not, for the purpose of keeping would-be consumers ignorant and thus decreasing demand, restrict advertising regarding commercial transactions—or at least that it may not restrict advertising regarding commercial transactions except to the extent that it outlaws or otherwise directly restricts the same transactions within its own borders. I welcome this outcome; but, **1520 *526 rather than "applying" the fourth prong of Central Hudson to reach the inevitable result that all or most such advertising

Although the Court took a sudden turn away from Virginia Bd. of Pharmacy in Central Hudson, it has never explained why manipulating the choices of consumers by keeping them ignorant is more legitimate when the ignorance is maintained through suppression of "commercial" speech than when the same ignorance is maintained through suppression of "noncommercial" speech. The courts, including this *527 Court, have found the Central Hudson "test" to be, as a general matter, very difficult to apply with any uniformity. 8 This may result in part from the inherently nondeterminative nature of a case-by-case balancing "test" unaccompanied by any categorical rules, and the consequent likelihood that individual judicial preferences will govern application of the test. 9 Moreover, the second prong of Central Hudson, as applied to the facts of that case and to those here, apparently *528 requires judges to delineate those situations in which citizens cannot be trusted with information, and invites judges to decide whether they themselves think that consumption of a product is harmful enough that it should be discouraged. <sup>10</sup> In my view, the Central Hudson test asks the courts to weigh incommensurables—the value of knowledge versus the value of ignorance—and to apply contradictory premises—that informed adults are the best judges of their own interests, and that they are not. Rather than continuing to apply a test that makes no sense to me when the asserted state interest is of the type involved here, I would return to the reasoning and holding of Virginia Bd. of Pharmacy. Under that decision, these restrictions fall.

Justice O'CONNOR, with whom THE CHIEF JUSTICE, Justice SOUTER, and Justice BREYER join, concurring in the judgment. Rhode Island 22. I agree with the Court that Rhode Island's price-advertising ban is invalid. I would resolve this case more narrowly, however, by applying our established Central Hudson test to determine whether this commercial speech regulation survives First Amendment scrutiny.

Under that test, we first determine whether the speech at issue concerns lawful activity and is not misleading, and whether the asserted governmental interest is substantial. If both these conditions are met, we must decide whether the regulation "directly advances the governmental interest asserted, and whether it is not more extensive than is necessary to serve that interest." Central Hudson Gas & Elec. *529 Corp. v. Public Serv. Comm'n of N.Y., 447 U.S. 557, 566, 100 S.Ct. 2343, 2351, 65 L.Ed.2d 341 (1980).

Given the means by which this regulation purportedly serves the State's interest, our conclusion is plain: Rhode Island's regulation fails First Amendment scrutiny.

Both parties agree that the first two prongs of the Central Hudson test are met. Even if we assume, arguendo, that Rhode Island's regulation also satisfies the requirement that it directly advance the governmental interest, Rhode Island's regulation fails the final prong; that is, its ban is more extensive than necessary to serve the State's interest.

As we have explained, in order for a speech restriction to pass muster under the final prong, there must be a fit between the legislature's goal and method, "a fit that is not necessarily perfect, but reasonable; that represents not necessarily the single best disposition but one whose scope is in proportion to the interest served."

must be "narrowly tailored." Ibid. The scope of the restriction on speech must be reasonably, though it need not be perfectly, targeted to address the harm intended to be regulated. See Florida Bar v. Went For It, Inc., 515 U.S. 618, 632-634, 115 S.Ct. 2371, 2380-2381, 132 L.Ed.2d 541 (1995). The State's regulation must indicate a "carefu[l] calculat[ion of] the costs and benefits associated with the burden on speech imposed by its prohibition." Cincinnati v. Discovery Network, Inc., 507 U.S. 410, 417, 113 S.Ct. 1505, 1510, 123 L.Ed.2d 99 (1993) (internal quotation marks omitted). The availability of less burdensome alternatives to reach the stated goal signals that the fit between the legislature's ends and the means chosen to accomplish those ends may be too imprecise to withstand First Amendment scrutiny. See Rubin v. Coors Brewing Co., 514 U.S. 476. 486-487, 115 S.Ct. 1585, 1591-1592, 131 L.Ed.2d 532 (1995); Cincinnati, supra, at 417, n. 13, 113 S.Ct., at 1510, n. 13. If alternative channels permit communication of the restricted speech, the regulation is $\$530 more likely to be considered reasonable. See Florida Bar, supra, at 632-634, 115 S.Ct., at 2380-2381.

Rhode Island offers one, and only one, justification for its ban on price advertising. Rhode Island says that the ban is intended to keep alcohol prices high as a way to keep consumption low. By preventing sellers from informing customers of prices, the regulation prevents competition from driving prices down and requires consumers to spend more time to find the best price for alcohol. Brief for Respondent State of Rhode Island 22. The higher cost of obtaining alcohol, Rhode Island argues, will lead to reduced consumption.

The fit between Rhode Island's method and this particular goal is not reasonable. If the target is simply intruding on sellers' ability to provide truthful, nonmisleading information to customers. Indeed, Rhode Island's own expert conceded that " 'the objective of lowering consumption of alcohol by **1522 banning price advertising could be accomplished by establishing minimum prices and/or by increasing sales taxes on alcoholic beverages.' " 39 F.3d 5, 7 (C.A.1 1994). A tax, for example, is not normally very difficult to administer and would have a far more certain and direct effect on prices, without any restriction on speech. The principal opinion suggests further alternatives, such as limiting per capita purchases or conducting an educational campaign about the dangers of alcohol consumption. Ante, at 1510. The ready availability of such alternatives—at least some of which would far more effectively achieve Rhode Island's only professed goal, at comparatively small additional administrative cost—demonstrates that the fit between ends and means is not narrowly tailored. Too, this regulation prevents sellers of alcohol from communicating price information anywhere but at the point of purchase. No channels *531 exist at all to permit them to publicize the price of their products.

Respondents point for support to Posadas de Puerto Rico Associates v. Tourism Co. of P.R., 478 U.S. 328, 106 S.Ct. 2968, 92 L.Ed.2d 266 (1986), where, applying the Central Hudson test, we upheld the constitutionality of a Puerto Rico law that prohibited the advertising of casino gambling aimed at residents of Puerto Rico, but permitted such advertising aimed at tourists.

The Court there accepted as reasonable the legislature's belief that the regulation would be effective, and concluded that, because the restriction affected only advertising of casino gambling aimed at residents of restriction. Respondents ask us to make a similar presumption here to uphold the validity of Rhode Island's law.

It is true that Posadas accepted as reasonable, without further inquiry, Puerto Rico's assertions that the regulations furthered the government's interest and were no more extensive than necessary to serve that interest. Since Posadas, however, this Court has examined more searchingly the State's professed goal, and the speech restriction put into place to further it, before accepting a State's claim that the speech restriction satisfies First Amendment scrutiny. See, e.g., Florida Bar v. Went For It, Inc., supra; Rubin v. Coors Brewing Co., supra; Ibanez v. Florida Dept. of Business and Professional Regulation, Bd. of Accountancy, 512 U.S. 136, 114 S.Ct. 2084, 129 L.Ed.2d 118 (1994); Edenfield v. Fane, 507 U.S. 761, 113 S.Ct. 1792, 123 L.Ed.2d 543 (1993); Cincinnati v. Discovery Network, Inc., supra. In each of these cases we declined to accept at face value the proffered justification for the State's regulation, but examined carefully the relationship between the asserted goal and the speech restriction used to reach that goal. The closer look that we have required since Posadas comports better with the purpose of *532 the analysis set out in Central Hudson, by requiring the State to show that the speech restriction directly advances its interest and is narrowly tailored. Under such a closer look, Rhode Island's price-advertising ban clearly fails to pass muster.

Because Rhode Island's regulation fails even the less stringent standard set out in Central Hudson, nothing here requires adoption of a new analysis for the evaluation of commercial speech regulation. The principal opinion acknowledges that "even under the further, I would not here undertake the question whether the test we have employed since Central Hudson should be displaced.

Respondents argue that an additional factor, the Twenty-first Amendment, tips the First Amendment analysis in Rhode Island's favor.

The Twenty-first Amendment repealed the prohibition on the manufacture, sale, or transportation of intoxicating liquors that **1523* had been established by the Eighteenth Amendment. Section 2 of the Twenty-first Amendment created an exception to the normal operation of the Commerce Clause, to permit States to prohibit commerce in, or the use of, alcoholic beverages. Craig v. Boren, 429 U.S. 190, 206, 97 S.Ct. 451, 461–462, 50 L.Ed.2d 397 (1976).

In its examination of Rhode Island's statute, the Court of Appeals erroneously concluded that the Twenty-first Amendment provided an "added presumption in favor of the validity of the state regulation." 39 F.3d, at 7–9 (internal quotation marks omitted). The Twenty-first Amendment cannot save an otherwise invalid restriction on speech.

Nothing in the Amendment's text or history justifies its use to alter the application of the First Amendment. "[O]ur prior cases have made clear that the [Twenty-first] Amendment [*533] does not license the States to ignore their obligations under other provisions of the Constitution." Capital Cities Cable, Inc. v. Crisp, 467 U.S. 691, 712, 104 S.Ct. 2694, 2707, 81 L.Ed.2d 580 (1984). See also Larkin v. Grendel's Den, Inc., 459 U.S. 116, 122, n. 5, 103 S.Ct. 505, 510, n. 5, 74 L.Ed.2d 297 (1982) ("The State may not exercise its power under the Twenty-first Amendment in a way which impinges upon the or use of liquor is concerned" (internal quotation marks omitted)). The Twenty-first Amendment does not trump First Amendment rights or add a presumption of validity to a regulation that cannot otherwise satisfy First Amendment requirements.

The Court of Appeals relied on California v. LaRue, 409 U.S. 109, 118-119, 93 S.Ct. 390, 397, 34 L.Ed.2d 342 (1972), for its determination that the Twenty-first Amendment provided an "added presumption" of the regulation's validity. There, this Court upheld a State's regulations prohibiting establishments licensed to sell liquor by the drink from offering explicitly sexual entertainment. As we recently explained in Coors, "LaRue did not involve commercial speech about alcohol, but instead concerned the regulation of nude dancing in places where alcohol was served." 514 U.S., at 483, n. 2, 115 S.Ct., at 1590, n. 2. The cases following LaRue similarly involved the regulation of nude or nearly nude dancing in establishments licensed to serve alcohol. New York State Liquor Authority v. Bellanca, 452 U.S. 714, 101 S.Ct. 2599, 69 L.Ed.2d 357 (1981) (per curiam); Newport v. Iacobucci, 479 U.S. 92, 107 S.Ct. 383, 93 L.Ed.2d 334 (1986) (per curiam). Nothing in LaRue suggested that the Twenty-first Amendment would permit a State to prohibit the kind of speech at issue here, and as discussed above, the text and history of the Twenty-first Amendment clearly indicate that the Amendment was not intended to supplant the general application of constitutional provisions, except for its limited exception to the Commerce Clause's normal *534 operation. Indeed, LaRue notes that prior decisions "did not go so far as to hold or say that the Twenty-first Amendment supersedes all other provisions of the United States Constitution in the area 7 400110 1115 00001 1005 consumption low, cannot survive First Amendment scrutiny. The Twenty-first Amendment cannot save this otherwise invalid regulation. While I agree with the Court's finding that the regulation is invalid, I would decide that issue on narrower grounds. I therefore concur in the judgment.

Regulation 32 of the Rules and Regulations of the Liquor Control Administrator provides that no placard or sign that is visible from the exterior of a package store may make any reference to the price of any alcoholic beverage. App. 2 to Brief for Petitioners.

Rhode Island Gen. Laws § 3–8–8.1 (1987) provides:

"Price advertising by media or advertising companies unlawful.—No newspaper, periodical, radio or television broadcaster or broadcasting company or any other person, firm or corporation with a principal place of business in the state of Rhode Island which is engaged in the business of advertising or selling advertising time or space shall accept, publish, or broadcast any advertisement in this state of the price or make reference to the price of any alcoholic beverages. Any person who shall violate any of the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor...." The statute authorizes the liquor control administrator to exempt trade journals from its coverage. Ibid.

"We also have little difficulty in finding that the asserted governmental interests, herein described as the promotion of temperance and the reasonable control of the traffic in alcoholic beverages, are substantial. We note, parenthetically, that the word 'temperance' is oftentimes mistaken as a synonym for 'abstinence,' It is not. Webster's Third New International Dictionary (1961) defines 'temperance' as 'moderation in or abstinence from the use of intoxicating drink.' The Rhode Island Legislature has the authority, derived from the state's inherent police power, to enact a variety of laws designed to suppress intemperance or to minimize the acknowledged evils of liquor traffic. Thus, there can be no question that these asserted interests are indeed substantial. Oklahoma Telecasters Association v. Crisp, 699 F.2d at 500." S & S Liquor Mart, Inc. v. Pastore, 497 A.2d, at 733-734.

In her dissent in Rhode Island Liquor Stores Assn. v. Evening Call Pub. Co., 497 A.2d 331 (R.I.1985), Justice Murray suggested that the advertising ban was motivated, at least in part, by an interest in protecting

- The plaintiff in that case is a respondent in this case and has filed other actions enforcing the price advertising ban. See id., at 333.
- In Dunagin v. Oxford, 718 F.2d 738 (1983), the Fifth Circuit distinguished our summary action in Queensgate in considering the constitutionality of a sweeping state restriction on outdoor liquor advertising. The court explained that Queensgate did not control because it involved a far narrower alcohol advertising regulation. Id., at 745–746. By contrast, in Oklahoma Telecasters Assn. v. Crisp, 699 F.2d 490, 495–497 (1983), rev'd on other grounds sub nom. Capital Cities Cable, Inc. v. Crisp, 467 U.S. 691, 697, 104 S.Ct. 2694, 2699, 81 L.Ed.2d 580 (1984), the Tenth Circuit relied on Queensgate in considering a prohibition against broadcasting alcohol advertisements. The Court of Appeals concluded that Queensgate stood for the proposition that the Twenty-first Amendment gives the State greater authority to regulate liquor advertising than the First Amendment would otherwise allow. 699 F.2d, at 495–497.

Other than the two Rhode Island Supreme Court decisions upholding the constitutionality of the statutes at issue in this case, only one published state court opinion has considered our summary action in Queensgate in passing on a liquor advertising restriction. See Michigan Beer & Wine Wholesalers Assn. v. Attorney General, 142 Mich.App. 294, 370 N.W.2d 328 (1985). There, the Michigan Court of Appeals concluded that Queensgate did not control because it involved a far narrower restriction on liquor advertising than the one that Michigan had imposed. 142 Mich.App., at 304–305, 370 N.W.2d, at 333–335.

- By contrast, the First Amendment does not protect commercial speech about unlawful activities. See Pittsburgh Press Co. v. Pittsburgh Comm'n on Human Relations, 413 U.S. 376, 93 S.Ct. 2553, 37 L.Ed.2d 669 (1973).
- See Bates v. State Bar of Ariz., 433 U.S. 350, 355, 97 S.Ct. 2691, 2694, 53 L.Ed.2d 810 (1977) (ban on lawyer advertising); Carey v. Population Services Int'l, 431 U.S. 678, 700, 97 S.Ct. 2010, 2024, 52 L.Ed.2d 675 (1977) advertising). Although Linmark involved a prohibition against a particular means of advertising the sale of one's home, we treated the restriction as if it were a complete ban because it did not leave open "satisfactory" alternative channels of communication. 431 U.S., at 92–94, 97 S.Ct., at 1618–1619.

In other words, the regulation failed the fourth step in the four-part inquiry that the majority announced in its opinion. It wrote:

"In commercial speech cases, then, a four-part analysis has developed. At the outset, we must determine whether the expression is protected by the First Amendment. For commercial speech to come within that provision, it at least must concern lawful activity and not be misleading. Next, we ask whether the asserted governmental interest is substantial. If both inquiries yield positive answers, we must determine whether the regulation directly advances the governmental interest asserted, and whether it is not more extensive than is necessary to serve that interest." Central Hudson, 447 U.S., at 566, 100 S.Ct., at 2351.

The Justices concurring in the judgment adopted a somewhat broader view. They expressed "doubt whether suppression of information concerning the availability and price of a legally offered product is ever a permissible way for the State to 'dampen' the demand for or use of the product." Id., at 574, 100 S.Ct., at 2356. Indeed, Justice Blackmun believed that even "though 'commercial' speech is involved, such a regulation strikes at the heart of the First Amendment." Ibid.

"Florida permits lawyers to advertise on prime-time television and radio as well as in newspapers and other media. They may rent space on billboards. They may send untargeted letters to the general population, or to discrete segments thereof. There are, of course, pages upon pages devoted to lawyers in the Yellow Pages of Florida telephone directories. These listings are organized alphabetically and by area of specialty. See generally Rule 4–7.2(a), Rules Regulating The Florida Bar ('[A] lawyer may advertise services through public media, such as a telephone directory, legal directory, newspaper or

- In Discovery Network, we held that the city's categorical ban on commercial newsracks attached too much importance to the distinction between commercial and noncommercial speech. After concluding that the esthetic and safety interests served by the newsrack ban bore no relationship whatsoever to the prevention of commercial harms, we rejected the State's attempt to justify its ban on the sole ground that it targeted commercial speech. See 507 U.S., at 428, 113 S.Ct., at 1516.
- This case bears out the point. Rhode Island seeks to reduce alcohol consumption by increasing alcohol price; yet its means of achieving that goal deprives the public of their chief source of information about the reigning price level of alcohol. As a result, the State's price advertising ban keeps the public ignorant of the key barometer of the ban's effectiveness: the alcohol beverages' prices.
- Before the District Court, the State argued that it 14 sought to reduce consumption among irresponsible drinkers. App. 67. In its brief to this Court, it equates its interest in promoting temperance with an interest in reducing alcohol consumption among all drinkers. See, e.g., Brief for Respondents 28. The Rhode Island Supreme Court has characterized the State's interest in "promoting temperance" as both "the state's interest in reducing the consumption of liquor," & S Liquor Mart, Inc. v. Pastore, 497 A.2d 729, 734 (1985), and the State's interest in discouraging "excessive consumption of alcoholic beverages," id., at 735. A state statute declares the ban's purpose to be "the promotion of temperance and for the reasonable control of the traffic in alcoholic beverages." R.I. Gen. Laws § 3-1-5 (1987).
- 15 See, e.g., Business Electronics Corp. v. Sharp Electronics Corp., 485 U.S. 717, 735, 108 S.Ct. 1515, 1525, 99 L.Ed.2d 808 (1988) (considering restriction on price advertising as evidence of Sherman Act violation); United States v. Sealy, Inc., 388 U.S. 350, 355, 87 S.Ct. 1847, 1851, 18 L.Ed.2d 1238 (1967) (same); Blackburn v. Sweeney, 53 F.3d 825, 828 (C.A.7 1995) (considering restrictions on the location of advertising as evidence of Sherman Act violation).

by those consumers, will increase in the ban's absence. Indeed, the State's own expert conceded that "plaintiffs' expectation of realizing additional profits through price advertising has no necessary relationship to increased overall consumption." 829 F.Supp., at 549.

Moreover, we attach little significance to the fact that some studies suggest that people budget the amount of money that they will spend on alcohol.

39 F.3d 5, 7 (C.A.1 1994). These studies show only that, in a competitive market, people will tend to search for the cheapest product in order to meet their budgets. The studies do not suggest that the amount of money budgeted for alcohol consumption will remain fixed in the face of a marketwide price increase.

- Although the Court of Appeals concluded that the regulation directly advanced the State's interest, it did not dispute the District Court's conclusion that the evidence suggested that, at most, a price advertising ban would have a marginal impact on overall alcohol consumption. Id., at 7–8; cf. Michigan Beer & Wine Wholesalers Assn. v. Attorney General, 142 Mich.App., at 311, 370 N.W.2d, at 336 (explaining that "any additional impact on the level of consumption attributable to the absence of price advertisements would be negligible").
- Outside the First Amendment context, we have refused to uphold alcohol advertising bans premised on similarly speculative assertions about their impact on consumption. See Capital Cities Cable, Inc. v. Crisp, 467 U.S., at 715–716, 104 S.Ct., at 2708–2709 (holding ban pre-empted by Federal Communications Commission regulations); California Retail Liquor Dealers Assn. v. Midcal Aluminum, Inc., 445 U.S. 97, 100 S.Ct. 937, 63 L.Ed.2d 233 (1980) (holding ban violated the Sherman Act). It would be anomalous if the First Amendment were more tolerant of speech bans than federal regulations and statutes.

to obscene or fighting words that expressed a point of view with which the government disagrees. R.A.V. v. St. Paul, 505 U.S. 377, 112 S.Ct. 2538, 120 L.Ed.2d 305 (1992). Similarly, in Cincinnati v. Discovery Network, Inc., 507 U.S. 410, 113 S.Ct. 1505, 123 L.Ed.2d 99 (1993), we assumed that States could prevent all newsracks from being placed on public sidewalks, but nevertheless concluded that they could not ban only those newsracks that contained certain commercial publications. Id., at 428, 113 S.Ct., at 1516.

- The Court found that although the total effect of the advertising ban would be to decrease consumption, the advertising ban impermissibly extended to some advertising that itself might not increase consumption. Central Hudson, supra, 447 U.S., at 569–571, 100 S.Ct., at 2353–2354.
- 4 As noted above, the asserted rationales for differentiating "commercial" speech from other speech are (1) that the truth of "commercial" speech is supposedly more verifiable, and (2) that "commercial speech, the offspring of economic selfinterest" is supposedly a "hardy breed of expression that is not particularly susceptible to being crushed by overbroad regulation." Central Hudson, supra, at 564, n. 6, 100 S.Ct., at 2350, n. 6 (internal quotation marks omitted). The degree to which these rationales truly justify treating "commercial" speech differently from other speech (or indeed, whether the requisite distinction can even be drawn) is open to question, in my view. See Kozinski & Banner, Who's Afraid of Commercial Speech, 76 Va. L.Rev. 627, 634-638 (1990) (questioning basis for drawing distinction); id., at 638-650 (questioning coherence of distinction). In any event, neither of these rationales provides any basis for permitting government to keep citizens ignorant as a means of manipulating their choices in the commercial or political marketplace.

- 6 E.g., Cincinnati v. Discovery Network, 507 U.S., at 417, n. 1, 113 S.Ct., at 1510, n. 1 (commercial speech restrictions impermissible if alternatives are "numerous" and obvious).
- The two most obvious situations in which no equally effective direct regulation will be available for discouraging consumption (and thus, the two situations in which the Court and I might differ on the outcome) are: (1) When a law directly regulating conduct would violate the Constitution (e.g., because the item is constitutionally protected), or (2) when the sale is to occur outside the State's borders.

As to the first situation: Although the Court's application of the fourth prong today does not specifically foreclose regulations or bans of advertising regarding items that cannot constitutionally be banned, it would seem strange to hold that the government's power to interfere with transmission of information regarding these items, in order to dampen demand for them, is more extensive than its power to restrict, for the same purpose, advertising of items that are not constitutionally protected. Cf. Bigelow v. Virginia, 421 U.S. 809, 822, 95 S.Ct. 2222, 2232–2233, 44 L.Ed.2d 600 (1975).

As to the second situation: When a State seeks to dampen consumption by its citizens of products or services outside its borders, it does not have the option of direct regulation. Here, a respondent correctly points out that alternatives such as taxes will not be effective in discouraging sales to Rhode Island residents of lower priced alcohol outside the State, see Brief for Respondent Rhode Island Liquor Stores Association 27; yet the Court strikes down the ban against price advertising even as applied to outof-state liquor sellers such as petitioner Peoples Super Liquor Stores. Perhaps Justice STEVENS and Justice O'CONNOR would distinguish a situation in which a State had actually banned sales of lower priced alcohol within the State and had then, through a ban of advertising by out-of-state sellers, sought to keep residents ignorant of the fact that lower priced alcohol was legally available in other States. Cf. United States v. Edge Broadcasting Co., 509 U.S. 418, 113 S.Ct. 2696, 125 L.Ed.2d 345 (1993). See ante, at 1510-1511.

The outcome in Edge may well be in conflict with the products or services to be purchased legally outside a State that has itself banned or regulated the same purchases within the State is not squarely presented in this case, I will not address here whether the decision in Edge can be reconciled with the position I take today.

See, e.g., Kozinski & Banner, 76 Va. L.Rev., at 630–631 (citing cases); Wright, Freedom and Culture: Why We Should Not Buy Commercial Speech, 72 Denver U.L.Rev. 137, 162–166 (1994) (citing cases); Kasakove, New York State Association of Realtors, Inc. v. Shaffer: When the Second Circuit Chooses Between Free Speech and Fair Housing, Who Wins?, 61 Brooklyn L.Rev. 397, 409–410, and nn. 71, 73, 418 (1995); Note, Dunagin v. City of Oxford: Mississippi's Suppression of Liquor Advertising, 63 Detroit L.Rev. 175, 184–187 (1985); Faille, Spinning the Roulette Wheel: Commercial Speech and Philosophical Cogency, Fed. B.N. & J. 58, 60–62 (1994); Margulies, Connecticut's Free Speech Clauses: A Framework and an Agenda, 65 Conn. Bar J. 437, 440, n. 20 (1991) (citing cases).

The third prong of Central Hudson is far from a mechanical one. In Posadas, Edge, and other cases, the Court has presumed that advertising bans decrease consumption. Here, by contrast, the principal opinion demands proof of a "significant" decrease in consumption, and finds it lacking. But petitioners' own expert testified at one point that. taking into account disposable income, price was a "potent" influence on alcohol consumption, see App. 79; and the American Medical Association had apparently concluded that advertising of alcohol in general increased total alcohol consumption sufficiently to make a ban on advertising worthwhile, 44 Liquor Mart, Inc. v. Racine, 829 F.Supp. 543, 548 (D.R.I.1993). A court more inclined to uphold the ban here could have pointed to these facts in support.

The courts have also had difficulty applying the fourth prong because the outcome has depended upon the level of generality with which the interest was described. See Faille, supra, at 58, 60. If today's strict application of the fourth prong survives, it will clarify the prong's application in a large number of cases, since, as noted above, it will simply invalidate most restrictions in which the government attempts to

DECLARATION OF DAVID FRESELLI

- I, David Freselli, hereby declare as follows:
  - 1. I am the night manager for the Hideaway Café located at 3700 Main Street, Riverside, California.
  - 2. I have personal knowledge of the facts stated herein and if called as a witness could competently testify thereto.
  - 3. The first time I meet Pete Elliot ("Elliot") of the Riverside Police Department to discuss the Hideaway Café, Elliot informed me that the problem with the Hideaway Café is "the blacks".
  - 4. During a meeting with Mike Crawford ("Crawford") and Lt. Townsend of the Riverside Police Department to discuss the Hideaway Café, Crawford admitted to me that he himself had previously stated that the problem with the Hideaway is "the blacks". Following Crawford's admission, Townsend said nothing.
  - 5. During the same meeting described in paragraph 4, Crawford complimented the Hideaway and stated that it had "improved" its operations during the time he was assigned to his position.

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the forgoing is true and correct.

DECLARATION OF KENNETH CRAIG JOHNSTON

- I, Kenneth Craig Johnston, hereby declare as follows:
  - 1. I am a corporate officer of Mission Impossible Antiques, Inc. which owns and operates the Hideaway Café located at 3700 Main Street, Riverside, California.
  - 2. I have personal knowledge of the facts stated herein and if called as a witness could competently testify thereto.
  - 3. During the time period in which Ward 1 Councilman, Mike Gardner, was running for Mayor of the City of Riverside, he stated to me personally that the problem with the Hideaway Café was that it "serviced the bottom feeders". My understanding of Mr. Gardner's statement was that he was disparaging the Hideaway's patronage, which is predominantly African-American.

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the forgoing is true and correct.

FW: Mayor's Phone Call Request

Enrique,

Today, at the request of Jimmy Nguyen, I contacted the Mayor via his home phone (see below email). The Mayor had two concerns that he would like information on. Per your past request, I am sending you the information he has requested.

- 1) Apparently, John Darby and Billy from the State were complaining about a BMA that has been removing trash from the trash cans and throwing it all around Downtown. Last night, Erik Reeves had reached out to me regarding the same concern but his people were telling him that it was actually Crystal Hendrickson (known female transient) that was throwing trash all over. Erik stated Staff has spent about 87 hours cleaning up after her. It just so happens that we arrested Crystal yesterday for indecent exposure after she stripped down and sat outside the Annex. She was transported to county jail but has since been released. I suspect she will make her way back to Redlands. In any event, our camera operators will be keeping an eye out for both her and the BMA. I did contact both John Darby and Billy and updated them. They were appreciative and will have their people contact us if they witness any crimes by the BMA or Crystal.
- 2) The Mayor heard that the new owner of the proposed bar (Back Alley) that is moving into the location where Augie's Coffee Shop was located also owns the Hideaway Café in downtown Riverside. The Mayor had heard that the Hideaway Café was a significant source of calls for service for Riverside PD. I contacted a lieutenant at Riverside PD who I have worked with in the past and trust. He advises the Hideaway Café has been a significant drain on police resources. According to the lieutenant, there have been shootings and stabbings at the location. The business does not have a dress code, sells very cheap drinks, and routinely has gangster rap artists attend his business. Last year, Riverside PD busted a bartender for selling drugs at the location. The owner (Craig unknown last name) fights every violation, often filing Pitchess Motions for the most minor violations. The lieutenant said that all of the nearby bar owners are complaining due to the way Craig runs the business.

With this information, we contacted ABC and determined the owner will need to obtain a PCN (Public Convenience Necessity) due to oversaturation (If you recall, Escape had to obtain a PCN if they were going to open up the Downtown brewery). The name on the ABC license notice posted in the window of Augle's is David Joseph Freselli. Often, if people are not in good standing with ABC, they will apply for ABC permits using a business associate's name. I have sent this to you prior to obtaining all of the information so that other City departments can start looking into the matter and be aware of what may be coming down. When the request for a PCN comes through the PD, we will do our due diligence and make the appropriate recommendation.

Please let me know if you have any questions.

Subject: FW: Mayor's Phone Call Request

Enrique,

Today, at the request of Jimmy Nguyen, I contacted the Mayor via his home phone (see below email). The Mayor had two concerns that he would like information on. Per your past request, I am sending you the information he has requested.

- 1) Apparently, John Darby and Billy from the State were complaining about a BMA that has been removing trash from the trash cans and throwing it all around Downtown. Last night, Erik Reeves had reached out to me regarding the same concern but his people were telling him that it was actually Crystal Hendrickson (known female transient) that was throwing trash all over. Erik stated Staff has spent about 87 hours cleaning up after her. It just so happens that we arrested Crystal yesterday for indecent exposure after she stripped down and sat outside the Annex. She was transported to county jail but has since been released. I suspect she will make her way back to Redlands. In any event, our camera operators will be keeping an eye out for both her and the BMA. I did contact both John Darby and Billy and updated them. They were appreciative and will have their people contact us if they witness any crimes by the BMA or Crystal.
- 2) The Mayor heard that the new owner of the proposed bar (Back Alley) that is moving into the location where Augie's Coffee Shop was located also owns the Hideaway Café in downtown Riverside. The Mayor had heard that the Hideaway Café was a significant source of calls for service for Riverside PD. I contacted a lieutenant at Riverside PD who I have worked with in the past and trust. He advises the Hideaway Café has been a significant drain on police resources. According to the lieutenant, there have been shootings and stabbings at the location. The business does not have a dress code, sells very cheap drinks, and routinely has gangster rap artists attend his business. Last year, Riverside PD busted a bartender for selling drugs at the location. The owner (Craig unknown last name) fights every violation, often filing Pitchess Motions for the most minor violations. The lieutenant said that all of the nearby bar owners are complaining due to the way Craig runs the business.

With this information, we contacted ABC and determined the owner will need to obtain a PCN (Public Convenience Necessity) due to oversaturation (If you recall, Escape had to obtain a PCN if they were going to open up the Downtown brewery). Travis, thank you for the follow-up.

Regrettably, it is clear that we will need to be aggressive relative to this potential new business going into Augies. Dan, if we find that these facts pose a real issue for us what are our options?

Thank you !

Hi. I am Det David Smith. I am Det. O'Boyle's partner in the Robbery/Homicide Unit at Riverside PD.

I understand you are requesting some video from 10-16-16 from City Cameras in the area of the Hideaway and Marios. I reviewed the cameras and found an assault that takes place near Marios on 10-16-16 around 02:10 AM. It looks like one of the Hideaway Security guys gets sucker punched and knocked out and then the suspect's friends stop other security from going after the suspect. No report was made and officers were in the immediate area and none were flagged down. Does anyone over there want to make a report about this or have any knowledge of it? I would love to arrest the idiots that assaulted the guard.

I attached a short video of the incident. Let me know if you can play it.

Thanks.

Detective David Smith

Riverside Police Department

Robbery/Homicide

(951) 353-7103

Dave, it was the owner of Mario's, I think his name is Andre, that was sucker punched, not Hideaway security personnel. There was no attached "short video" as indicated in your e-mail. I believe Hideaway's only involvement was assisting in the incident to help Mario's out.

Telephone Message for Det. O'Boyle

1 message

Please be advised that at 5:28pm on October 18, 2016, I contacted Detective O'Boyle at the number which he provided to Hideaway management and indicated that I would make myself available at any time tonight to facilitate his investigatory needs concerning Hideaway footage. I will have my phone by my side for the entire evening and will promptly respond to any request to meet Sgt. O'Boyle at the Hideaway this evening, or any time thereafter that is convenient for him. Please also be advised that given the fact that the incident occurred 9 days ago, I requested the report number so that the Hideaway duplicate copy of the footage can be marked appropriately. The report number of course is a matter of public record.

Thank you.

RPD Request for video footage of Hideaway for 10/09/16

To: Neil Okazaki <nokazaki@riversideca.gov>, "Russo, John A." <jrusso@riversideca.gov>, "White, Ted"
<twhite@riversideca.gov>, "Randel, Travis" <trandel@riversideca.gov>, sdiaz@riversideca.gov

Mr. Okazaki,

Please be advised that at approximately 3:25pm or thereabout, Detective O'Boyle spoke with the manager of the Hideaway regarding an alleged shooting that occurred behind the Riverside Library on October 9, 2016. Allegedly, a victim was injured in the shooting and O'Boyle wanted to have the video footage to confirm whether the victim was in the Hideaway. This of course is completely contradictory to Lt. Blumdahl's representation to Ted White who sought a meeting to discuss the Hideaway CUP because the alleged shooters were in the Hideaway. Nonetheless, in an effort to provide the most useful information, the manager suggested that O'Boyle review the patronscan, as it would provide a clear picture of the individual's face as well as their license information. Despite his representation that he needed video footage to determine if the victims were in the Hideaway, O'Boyle declined to review the patronscan. If O'Boyle was at the Hideaway for the reason he provided to the manager, he would most definitely want to review partonscan. These inconsistencies, coupled with the fact that the alleged shooting took place 9 days ago (RPD would have requested the footage the same night as the shooting if this was being properly investigated, just like it did for the City owned parking garage shooting) leads me to believe that RPD is not interested in investigating this alleged shooting, but rather to engage in a fishing expedition for violations at the Hideaway by requesting video footage. My client is more than willing to provide video footage for a true law enforcement purpose, but not to facilitate the continued retaliation and harassment of the Hideaway, its owners and employees, for reporting racial bias on the part of RPD.

That being said, I will make myself available anytime this evening to meet with Sgt. Boyle and provide him with what ever information he needs. I actually went to the Hideaway to assist Detective Boyle. I arrive at approximately 3:40pm. However, he had already left the premise.

Please be further advised that all conversations with any RPD personnel will be taped recorded. All video footage will be duplicated before being turned over to RPD to ensure that footage is not tampered with. No footage will provided unless a legitimate law enforcement reason is provided.

Good Afternoon Chief Diaz,

As I'm sure you are aware, I am counsel for the Hideaway Cafe which has alleged a history of discrimination and retaliation by your Department and presently has an open complaint with the Police Review Commission which has been investigated by Internal Affairs. I am awaiting the findings of the investigation to determine if I will be escalating this matter to the Department of Justice.

Today, my client's manager advised me that he received a request from a Detective Zacharaih Fishell for video footage for an alleged stolen cell phone from the Hideaway in the early morning of 3-31-2017. I found this quite interesting considering that at a recent meeting with all the downtown entertainment establishments held on the 7th floor of City Hall, the owners were advised by Lt. Blumdahl that there was not sufficient police personnel to respond to calls of homeless men exposing themselves and masturbating in public in front of their establishments. Nor was there sufficient personnel to respond to or investigate vehicle theft and vandalism. So, imagine my surprise when my client's manager contacted me to advise that the understaffed police department had a detective working on a stolen cell phone case. Is this yet another example of harassment of my client? Is the police department still engaging in a fishing expedition, or does the police department really prioritize stolen cell phones above sex crimes and vehicle theft? If your department is in need of the footage to solve a "serious case" of a "stolen cell phone", please have Mr. Okazaki contact me directly. Otherwise, I would recommend that Det.Fishell concentrate on more serious investigations before someone is raped, seriously injured or killed downtown. Thank you.

Good Morning Raychele,

So that the lines of communication are open and both sides talk through these issues, I think it would be prudent to invite you to a meeting to discuss the handling of these video footage requests. I will ask City Planner Ted White and RPD Lt. Val Graham (who oversees the Vice Unit) to attend with me. Can you let me know what your availability is over the next couple weeks? It seems that it would be helpful to have a constructive conversation on this topic.

I did hear that you called me to give me a heads-up on this email. I appreciate the notification.

Thanks.

Neil

That is fine Neil. I think I already understand how it should work and it has worked successfully up until this point. Hideaway management has expediently provided footage and have even been personally thanked by RPD officers. I would love the opportunity to meet with Val Graham considering it was his case and the horrific discrimination he suffered at the hands of the City that inspired me to take this case to begin with. He is an inspiration to all who have fallen victim to the abuse and mistreatment of minorities by the City of Riverside. You should also be aware that I am sending another complaint to Internal Affairs for review which has also been copied to the CLETS Division of the DOJ. You should receive it shortly. I am available Wed, Thurs, and Friday of this week. Next week is pretty open. Let me know what works for you and I will adjust my schedule accordingly. Thank you.

Raychele,

If we are on the same page, then hopefully the meeting won't take long. I appreciate your availability. I will get back to you in the couple days with a suggested meeting time.

Thanks.

Neil
