Ms. Harvey provided an overview of the City's social media. She asked the Commission for their thoughts and concerns.

Commissioners Allen and Mill and were not in favor of a Planning Commission social media platform. Commissioner Mill expressed his concern with the potential of having debates prior to a public hearing, which could potentially be a violation of the Brown Act. He did not have problems with posting items that have been voted on by the Commission.

Commissioner Villalobos stated he was not advocating a Planning Commission website but that it was more making the public aware of what is coming before the Commission or decisions that have been made. The idea was more to make people are aware of what is being discussed not for the Commission to have a discussion on line.

Commissioner Roberts agreed that this was more of an announcement platform.

Commissioner Teunissen commented that the biggest way to engage the public is to take advantage of the City Councilpersons's newsletters they send out to their constituents. The City Council person should be letting the public know what is going on with all their boards and commissions.

Commissioner Parker agreed with Commissioner Teunissen, it should be the City Councilperson's responsibility to reach out to the constituents. He stated he would not support a Planning Commission platform.

Commissioner Roberts also agreed with Commissioner Teunissen that this would be the perfect solution to getting the word out.

Ms. Harvey stated that the average web traffic was 60,000 hits. She stated that everyone has an opportunity to sign up for a push notification for email when agendas are published. Anyone actively seeking this information can sign up for those notices and will get the agendas when it is published. She agreed with the Commissioners comments regarding some folks being unaware of what is on the City's website and felt it was a valid concern. She stated that there is a lot of time that goes into the customer service aspect of social media. It is not just blasting information out and letting it sit there. She agreed that the City Council ward newsletters was a great idea. She is available to work with Planning staff for specific projects that are citywide, there maybe dialogue about sharing those projects.

Commissioner Villalobos noted that the Commission had already established at the last meeting that they did not want to have their own page or platform. To have the councilman do this is fine. The idea was to see what the options were. He stated his biggest concern is that people are aware of what is happening.

Chair Kirby thanked Ms. Harvey for her time and for attending today. No formal action was taken by the Commission.

BROWN ACT, CONFLICT OF INTEREST AND ETHICS TRAINING

Kristi Smith, Chief Assistant City Attorney, presented the annual Brown Act, Conflict of Interest and Ethics training for the Planning Commission.
