BACKGROUND

RPU follows the billing dispute process in Water Rule 17 and Electric Rule 21 Bill Dispute Appeal in coordination with Water Rule 6 and Electric Rule 6 Meter Investigations and Adjustments of Bills.

1. On February 24, 2023, Booker T. Cole spoke with Customer Service requesting review of electrical usage, reporting that the address had experienced flickering lights and partial power since December.
2. On February 27, 2023, meter technicians tested the electric meter and followed up directly on March 2, 2023.
 - a. It was disclosed that after receiving a large natural gas bill in January, the customer purchased a 1500-watt electric space heater as an alternative heat source.
 - b. While onsite, technicians observed and showed the meter disk emulator with the space heater both on and off and explained that the space heater was likely the source of the increased usage.
 - c. The meter disk emulator provides a visual indication of the rate of energy usage. The emulator slowed significantly with the space heater turned off and conversely sped up significantly with the space heater on - drawing 12 amps continuously.
 - d. Tests completed on the meter 26113948 passed all the accuracy tests for Full load, Light load and Power factor.
 - e. An AMI electric meter was installed so that usage reads could be collected more frequently, and to have the ability to set up the Home Connect to monitor energy usage.

RECOMMENDATION

That the Board of Public Utilities deny the appeal from Booker T. Cole of 5004 Golden Avenue, Riverside, 92505, for electric service billed on February 13, 2023 and March 15, 2023, for the account at the same address and uphold the Public Utilities Department findings that the billings were calculated accurately.
