The End of an Era

The steam locomotive may be almost as outdated as the horse-drawn fire engine, but one can't read of its passing from the Riverside scene without a few pangs of regret.

when the city Park and Recreation Commission reviews the museum's proposal.

E.F. "Sandy" Sandison, a member of the Riverside Cultural Heritage Board, compares the transfer proposal to the celebrated theft of a steam locomotive and railroad cars by some Union soldiers during the Civil War.

Members of the board, which unanimously rejected the transfer proposal last month, will lobby the park commission.
