Photographs No. 1, 3 & 4 taken by Dennis Hill on November 5, 2020. Photographs No. 10-20 taken by Tavo Olmos March 17, 2021. Photographs No. 2, 5-9 and 21-28 taken by Dennis Hill March 17, 2021.

- CA-2947-1 Elevation view of west façade showing entrance and porch, with the Robinson House (HABS CA-2946) to the north, looking east. Originally a one-story structure, the second story was added during a remodel in 1916. The Harada family was incarcerated during World War II. Only daughter Sumi Harada returned permanently to the family home after the war, the other siblings for only brief periods. Her parents, Jukichi and Ken, died while incarcerated. Her siblings moved other places. Sumi had the second-story sleeping porch enclosed in 1945, to provide lodging for other Japanese Americans as they rebuilt their lives after incarceration.
- CA-2947-2 Elevation view of west façade showing entrance and porch with six-foot scale, looking east.
- CA-2947-3 Contextual street view of south and west façades, with Robinson House (HABS CA-2946) in background, looking east.
- CA-2947-4 Detail view of Robinson House (HABS CA-2946) front porch, showing the north and west façades of the Harada House, looking south.
- CA-2947-5 Oblique view of west and south façades showing front porch, looking east-northeast
- CA-2947-6 Detail of front porch support columns from the 1916 remodel, looking northeast.
- CA-2947-7 Oblique view of the east and south façades, looking northwest. This portion of the house was originally a rear porch before being enclosed and used as a laundry room. From the interior, the original post for this porch is visible. This same style of post was used on the front porch (as seen from historic photographs) and was replaced with the current Craftsman style during the remodel of 1916.
- CA-2947-8 Detail view of the rear entry of the east façade and south façade of attached storage area, looking north-northwest.
